CHARTS

THIS WEEK'S CHART
ANALYSED BY ALAN JONES

● PRINCE: "I'm a bit sad today readers, I've lost me curling tongs"

NEWS EXTRA PRINCE DATES

We understand that Prince is in the process of finalising some British dates which looks likely he'll be touring late this year or early in the New Year, with some shows at Wembley and regional dates. Full details are expected to be confirmed soon.

hits so far are 'Let's Dance' and 'On The Beach Summer '88' which both reached number 12.

● Another week, another number one album: This week's chart champ, predictably enough, is Kylie Minogue, whose second album, 'Enjoy Yourself', establishes a new chart record by becoming the Sixth album to debut at number one in as many weeks. Kylie's first LP, 'Kylie — The Album', also debuted at number one immediately after it was released 14 months ago.

'Enjoy Yourself' sold nearly 100,000 copies last week, and though Kyliephiles will no doubt be delighted with it, I'm afraid that its playing time of less than 33 minutes represents poor value for money, whether at its full price of £7.79, or the more commonly discounted £5.99. Of all the number one albums of the Eighties, none has been so short.

The majority of albums these days are between 40 and 50 minutes in duration. Here's how Kylie's immediate predecessors at number one stack up: The outgoing number one, 'Crossroads' Tracy Chapman, is over 42 minutes long; Tears For Fears 'The Seeds of Love' runs for 51 minutes; Tina Turner's 'Foreign Affair' clocks in at over 52 minutes and Eurythmics 'Voyage To The End of the World' 'Too Are One' occupies nearly 48 minutes. Kylie's album is barely longer than most, but it's the most succinct of the Sixties, while The Beatles' shortest album, their 1963 debut 'Please Please Me' could be listened to in its entirety in 31 minutes and 38 seconds, and Cliff Richard had an album which played for precisely as long as its title '32 minutes And 17 Seconds' suggests.

Tucked in behind Kylie are Tracy Chapman at number two and Tina Turner at number three, giving the first all-female top 3 in album chart history. With Gloria Estefan at number four, only the presence of Tears For Fears at number five prevents Liza Minnelli from giving women a 100 per cent stake in the top 5.

JIVE BUNNY HOPS TO TOP: Black Box's 'Ride On Time' has had a one-week run at the top of the chart is replaced at number one by Jive Bunny and the New Power Generation's 'That's What I Like'. It's an act of sweet revenge for Jive Bunny, whose previous hit, 'Swing The Mood', was dethroned by 'Ride On Time'. Jive Bunny is the first act to "sandwich" a hit since 1984, when George Michael both preceded and followed Rankie Goes To Hollywood's 'Two Tribes' at number one. 'Wake Me Up Before You Go-Go' lost its crown to Frankie's hit, whilst 'Careless Whisper' replaced it. George was, of course, part of 'Jam' for the former hit and a solo act for 'Careless Whisper'.

The success of the new Jive Bunny disk is also helped 'Swing The Mood' to halt its decline. This week, its 15th in the chart, rebounds five places to number 27.

Meanwhile, Sonia, who topped the chart with her debut single 'You'll Never Stop Me Loving You' immediately prior to 'Swing The Mood', finds the going much tougher with her follow-up 'Can't Forget You', which peaked last week at number 7 and now dips to number 22.

Milli Vanilli's 'Girl, I'm Gonna Miss You' continues its meteoric rise, climbing to number three — a 50 place improvement on the August peak of their first single 'Blame It On The Rain'. They also reached number three last November with their debut hit 'Girl You Know It's True' and number 16 in January with 'Baby Don't Forget My Number'. All four tracks were lifted from their debut album 'Illicit', which is about to be re-issued in a remixed version, and seems certain to top its original chart peak of number 37.

● 'Wishing On A Star' this week becomes the second of Rose Royce's three top 10 hits to subsequently return to the top 10 for another act.

Auf Weidersehen Pet TV star Jimmy Nail's revival of 'Love Don't Live Here Anymore' reached number three in 1985, seven years after the group's original had peaked at number two.

'Wishing On A Star' was also a hit for Rose Royce in 1978, reaching number three. The current hit version by Fresh 4 stands at number 10. 'Car Wash', anyone?

● 'If I Could Turn Back Time' climbs another four notches to number nine, giving Cher her fifth top 10 hit in a solo career spanning over 24 years.

● An item recently about Liza Minnelli's latest record contrasted Gallup and Network charts. My comments were simply intended to show that each chart was different and not that either was generally better than the other. My expression of astonishment at the single's chart fluctuations was an observation of chart volatility. Owing to a typographical error the nickname of the Network Chart appeared as "The Nettle". Its nickname is, of course, "The Nettle".

● 'The Road To Hell' soars from number 28 to number 15, and must be fancied to give Chris Rea his first ever top 10 hit. It's the 18th hit to date for the 38-year-old singer/songwriter from Middlesbrough, who first charted in 1978 with 'Fool (If You Think It's Over)' — and if it fails to reach the top 10 he will share with AC/DC and The Clash the unenviable record of having had most hits without ever reaching the top 10. Chris's biggest
