

It's all about Madonna, Prince, Pet Shop Boys, Margaret Thatcher, condoms and Green-ness really.

As with last year, Pet Shop Boys emerged as Best Group with Prince again as Best Male Solo Artist. Madonna's triumphant return with the indisputably brilliant 'Like A Prayer' album helped her to walk away with the Best Female Solo Artist, Best Album, Best Single and Best Video awards. Bros continue to languish at the top of your hit list in spite of Matt's pleas for a fair go in last week's Record Mirror. It seems you're all wearing condoms in these dangerous times, though it remains to be seen whether or not you keep them on for sex.

As for the Eighties in general, Thatcher, Tories and all things blue come in for a hammering, whereas all things green are good. Everyone was particularly happy when the walls came tumbling down in Berlin, and funky Mikhail Gorbachev has made his presence felt. All in all, it seems the Eighties are coming to a close in somewhat better shape than they began. Perhaps there's hope yet.
