CHART FOCUS

Despite the fact that this is its fourth week at number one, sales of Bryan Adams' (Everything I Do) I Do It For You continue to grow week-on-week. The record sold more copies last week than any single in any week this year. For a record to sustain substantial sales growth four weeks after hitting number one is almost unprecedented in recent years.

Adams' single is now almost certain to take over as the biggest seller of the year within the next fortnight. Meanwhile, it continues to lead the chart by a margin of very nearly three to one, this despite a massive surge by abelmates Extreme's More Than Words, which moves decisively into runner-up position.

This marks the first occasion in its history that the A&M label has occupied the top two positions in the chart simultaneously. A&M is one of three labels with two Top 10 hits at present, the others being RCA and its associated Geffen label. Given the lukewarm to cold status of all these labels at the start of the year, that's quite an achievement.

Geffen, by the by, continues to hold down the number one spot on the album chart with Cher's Love Hurts, which has been immovable since it debuted at number one six weeks ago. It's the first regular (that is, non-compilation) album to spend six weeks in a row at number one since Phil Collins'... But Seriously.

Back on the singles chart, the week's highest new entry, at number 26, is Summertime by DJ Jazzy Jeff & the Fresh Prince. The record is the duo's first hit since their debut Girls Ain't Nothing But Trouble reached number 21 nearly five years ago.

Proving that when you're hot, you're hot, the Talkin' Loud label registers its third Top 40 hit in recent weeks as the Young Disciples' Apparently Nothin' returns to the chart at number 33, having originally peaked at number 46 in March. Since then, the label has scored with Incognito featuring Jocelyn Brown and Omar. These hits represent the Phonogram associated label's first Top 40 successes after a run of club hits.

Notwithstanding my comments about the C&C Music Factory album in Record Mirror Update, their album Gonna Make You Sweat vaults to number nine this week from number 55. Yes, the success of the single Things That Make You Go Hmm... must be a factor, but the major cause of the album's massive jump was TV advertising, which helped its sales climb to nearly five times its previous level.

ANALYSIS

The chart re-entry of Meatloaf's Bat Out Of Hell sees the album living up to its name thanks to the skilful tweaking of a rusty marketing ploy.

Adding bonus tracks to back catalogue is nothing new, but rarely has it been more timely. With 395 weeks in the album chart behind it, the sales potential of Bat Out Of Hell may have seemed exhausted. But Epic marketing director Tim Buckler saw a chance to harness a three-way sales incentive with the addition of just one track to the CD and cassette formats.

Dead Ringer For Love, Meatloaf's duet with Cher and his biggest UK hit, was re-released in April, "as a poster", says Buckler. He recognised that the success of Bat Out Of Hell was chiefly due to vinyl sales.

single as a trailer and the growth of CD, Buckler also reaped benefit from Cher's recent successes. "The Show at number three. But the tactic is no guarantee of major sales. Kylie Minogue's Rhythm Of Love was re-issued with three extra dance mixes in June — with unspectacular results.

But there is plenty of scope for marketing departments to adjust tracklists until they hit the right formula.

The BPI's album chart rules allow new versions to vary widely from originals, stating that 80% of the tracks must be the same.

"It is a flexible rule because the marketing pressures are not so great as with singles," says Gallup charts manager John Pinder. "Being allowed 80% either way means the only real restraint is the cost."

As well as straight-forward reissue or bonus tracks, there is one other sure way of revitalising product: "What I
