CHART FOCUS

The Chart Show reckons Monty Python's Always Look On The Bright Side Of Life was the UK's best-selling single last week, while the MRIB compiled Network Chart was for Kiri Te Kanawa's World In Union. But as far as Gallup, and most of the rest of the nation is concerned, Bryan Adams' Everything I Do I Do It For You is number one for the sixteenth week in a row. Its decline has slowed considerably, but it is selling far fewer copies now than a number one on a typical week. To tip anything to topple it has proved a losers' game so far, but a week hence it should have surrendered its crown to either U2, 2 Unlimited or even Vic Reeves, whose Dizzy collaboration with the Vonderstuff is this week's highest debutant at number six, equalling the peak position of his previous hit Born Free. Dizzy was a number one hit for Tommy Roe in 1969.

Oceanic's debut hit Insanity drifts a couple of notches to number seven this week, its eighth in the Top 10. Although it never reached number one, it has sold far more copies than some of this year's chart-toppers. The same is true of Right Said Fred's I'm Too Sexy, which has been in the Top 40 for 14 weeks, and has outsold all this year's singles except for (Everything I Do) I Do For You and Cher's Shoop Shoop Song. The Top Five this week could not be more cosmopolitan, comprising acts from five different countries, with the Canadian Adams leading from Holland's 2 Unlimited, Germany's Scorpions, New Zealand's Kiri Te Kanawa and the UK's Monty Python. Hammer registers his seventh hit in less than a year and half, with 2 Legit 2 Quit. The first single from his similarly titled album, it debuts ominously low at number 60. Of his previous hits, none debuted lower than number 21. It's Hammer's longest single yet, and one of the 20 lengthiest seven-inchers ever to chart, checking in at a few seconds under eight minutes. The album chart continues to be highly volatile, with a further five new entries invading the Top 10 including Erasure's Chorus, which debuts at number one. It's the duo's third number one album in a row, following 1988's The Innocents and 1989's Wild. They've performed this noteworthy treble without ever having a number one single.

Kiri Te Kanawa and Monty Python could be forgiven for laughing in the faces of playlist chiefs after chalking up top five singles with little help from regional radio. At number four and number three respectively last week, Dame Kiri's World In Union and Monty Python's Always Look On The Bright Side Of Life have proved you don't need local radio support to achieve big sales. While Dame Kiri's single is getting a daily airing to millions of rugby fans as the TV World Cup theme — in the same way as Pavarotti's Nessun Dorma did during Occer's Italia 90 — the Monty Python oldie is getting almost its only exposure as Simon Mayo's signature tune on Radio One.

"It's been very disappointing," says Jennie Halsall, local radio plugger for both singles. "This is happening even though the stations' own listeners must be buying these records." BRMB head of music Robin Valk insists such sales still do

2.5m audience, he insists. "The idea that we should play any record just because it is in the top five is fundamentally flawed," says Valk. "Any radio programmer will agree on that." While stations believe such "novelty" records don't fit into their target audience and output, they will continue to be ignored. City FM head of music Kenny James says its research has led it to target a core audience of 15 to 16-year-olds. "I can't imagine anyone driving along listening to Kiri Te Kanawa on FM," he adds. "We are more interested in what a record sounds like than what it sells like." While that attitude must worry many in the record industry, Virgin Records head of promotions Tony Barker is
