CHART FOCUS

All this change is making me dizzy: Only a week after Bryan Adams was relieved of the leadership of the singles chart, the title changes hands again, with Vic Reeves and the Wonder Stuff's rendition of Dizzy surging ahead of U2's The Fly. Dizzy was previously a number one hit for Tommy Roe in 1969, and is the 15th song to top the chart in two different versions.

Meanwhile, the week's highest new entry is Rhythm Is A Mystery by K-klass, a dance act whose members hail from Wrexham and Chester. The record, which scorches to the top of Record Mirror's club chart this week, debuts at number eight despite minimal radio support. Now on the Deconstruction/Parlophone label, it was originally released in April on Creed, at which point it peaked at 51.

Another re-issue, Color Me Badd's I Adore Mi Amor, bounces back at number 59, following the group's appearance on the Smash Hits Poll Winners' programme. It originally peaked at number 44 last month. Dealers should note that its catalogue number has changed from W0067 to W0076.

With their tongues placed firmly in their cheeks, the Justified Ancients Of Mu Mu make a strong debut at number 18 with It's Grim Up North. A future number one? Why not; the group has previously topped the chart as the Timelords and KLF.

Australian/New Zealand act Crowded House register their biggest hit to date, as Fall At Your Feet surges 20 places to number 26, thus eclipsing their 1987 hit Don't Dream It's Over, which reached number 27. Ironically, Don't Dream It's Over is partly responsible for their latest success. Interest in the song was stirred up by Paul Young's cover, which dips from number 20 to number 22 this week. Consequently, the Crowded House version of the song was included on the two CD editions of Fall At Your Feet, which account for more than half of its sales.

For the second time this year, Queen enter the album chart at number one. In February they led the list for a fortnight with Innuendo. This week Greatest Hits II cruises to the summit, easily deposing Simply Red's Stars. Queen have now had eight number one albums. Only two acts have had more — the Beatles (12) and the Rolling Stones (nine). Queen's original Greatest Hits album — itself a number one a decade ago — re-enters the chart at number 68.

The Tate Gallery would never have asked Picasso to chop a couple of inches from his paintings, but pop artists are constantly forced into such compromises.

The alternative is to lose some of the vital TV and radio exposure which can kick-start a single's chart run. Virgin is currently feeling the sharp end of the radio scissors with its 6 mins 38 sec Genesis single No Son Of Mine, which has been cut by several stations.

The situation echoes Queen's troubles with its 6 mins 32 sec single Innuendo in January, slashed in half to just three minutes by London's Capital Radio, despite leaping straight to number one.

Although the station's head of music Richard Park says artists are willing to put up he says, "but it is hard to know how you can feasibly cut a piece of music like the Genesis single which is basically telling a story."

Apart from classics like Bohemian Rhapsody (5 mins Osbourne cut his No More Tears album track from 7 mins 20 for a 5 mins 20 single, EMI had to lean on Brian May to cut the 4mins 10secs single Driven By You.
