CHART FOCUS

Boyz II Men complete one of the slowest ever climbs to the singles chart summit this week, as their End Of The Road hit captures the throne on its ninth week in the chart. The slowest climb of all came in 1985, when Jennifer Rush's The Power Of Love took 12 agonising weeks to reach pole position.

End Of The Road is the first Motown single to reach number one here since Stevie Wonder's I Just Called To Say I Love You in 1984. But, while it's only just settling in at the top here, End Of The Road is America's number one again this week, for a record-setting 12th week.

No record has endured that long Stateside since 1952, when Jo Stafford stayed on top for a similar spell with You Belong To Me.

While Madonna has been exciting the press with her jeans off, two rapidly blossoming hits are being aided and abetted in their chart exploits by TV advertisements designed to get us all into a pair of denims. Remarkably, venerable bluesman John Lee Hooker scores only his second hit with Boom Boom, which is currently in heavy use promoting Lee Jeans. A remake of a track he first released 30 years ago, it returned to the chart last week over 28 years after his debut hit Dimples.

If he'd waited literally a few more weeks before returning to the chart he would have established a new record for lengthiest gap between hits. The current record-holder is Eartha Kitt, who marked time for nearly 28½ years between disappearing from the chart in 1955 and returning to it in 1983. Hooker's age, according to most sources, is 75 — but he disputes that, stating that he is "only" 72, and that he added three years to his official age in order to join the army early. Whatever the truth, he is the oldest artist ever to have a hit.

While Hooker's campaign for Lee Jeans continues, so does the ongoing series of hits spawned by commercials for Levi 501s.

The current ad utilises Erma Franklin's Piece Of My Heart, which progresses speedily to number nine this week, a remarkable achievement considering it has not been on Top Of The Pops, and has had far less airplay than most records in a similar chart position. Franklin's record is the 11th hit fostered by Levis since its 501 campaign started in 1986 with Sam Cooke's Wonderful World and Marvin Gaye's I Heard It Through The Grapevine.
