CHART FOCUS

After three weeks topping the singles chart, Boyz II Men have indeed reached the end of the road, and are replaced at number one by Charles & Eddie with Would I Lie To You. Each of the last three number ones (the other was Tasmin Archer's Sleeping Satellite) has been by a chart newcomer — the first time such a hat-trick has occurred since 1989, when Sonia, Jive Bunny and Black Box launched their careers with number ones.

It's also a rare number one for the Capitol label, which has released nearly a hundred singles since its last chart-topper, the Steve Miller Band's 1990 re-issue of The Joker. It's highly appropriate that it should have the number one this week: exactly 40 years ago the singles chart was introduced to Britain by the New Musical Express and the first number one was Al Martino's Here In My Heart—on Capitol.

Underlining the current reliance on oldies (only half the Top Ten singles are new songs), the two highest new entries to the chart this week, both on Virgin, are oldies reworked by their originators. Heaven 17's Temptation, a number two hit when first released in 1983, bounces back at number nine in a Brothers In Rhythm remix, while Genesis earn the highest debut of their 18-year singles chart career with their live recording of Invisible Touch. Surprisingly, the studio version, released in 1986, reached only number 15.

Comeback of the week must be that of Neil Diamond. The 51-year-old veteran first charted in 1970, and had the last of a dozen hits a decade ago. Helped, no doubt, by his

Top Of The Pops appearance last week, his remake of Morning Has Broken debuts at number 36.

Sounding a rather different note, the single which enters the chart this week at number 75, Shattered Glass by Dtox, is proof that you can keep a good song down for only so long. Originally recorded by Ellie Warren a decade ago, it was subsequently a single for Laura Branigan, but this is the first time it has charted.

Finally, though her remake of Oh No, Not My Baby surprisingly dips two places to number 35 this week, Cher's Greatest Hits, 1975-1992 album debuts at number one, as did her last album Love Hurts. In this most backward looking year, only four of the last ten number one albums has comprised wholly new material — but even by these standards some of the material on Cher's album is very old. In fact, the last number one album to include anything older was The Legendary Roy Orbison, nearly four years ago.
