CHART FOCUS

Charles and Eddie's reign at the top of the singles chart is over, as Whitney Houston registers her fourth number one with I Will Always Love You. The single is also number one — her 10th — in the US.

Two other artists who are no strangers to the number one spot — Cliff Richard and Michael Jackson — pose an imminent threat to Whitney, and make impressive debuts with their latest singles, I Still Believe In You and Heal The World, at numbers nine and three respectively.

Cliff is aiming for his fourth Christmas number one in five years, having topped the chart in 1988 with Mistletoe & Wine, in 1989 with Do They Know It's Christmas as part of Band Aid II and in 1990 with Saviour's Day. It's interesting to note that, despite his protestations that he was fed up with Christmas songs, Cliff's latest does mention Santa Claus.

If Cliff's debut is impressive, Michael's is even more so: I Still Believe In You is the first single from Cliff's yet to be released album Access All Areas (a silly title, incidentally, given that it will consist of studio recordings, not live tracks), but Heal The World is the SIXTH hit lifted from Jackson's Dangerous album in a little over a year. The album makes a more than healthy move as a result of the latest hit, leaping from number 38 to number 25.

Jacko has now had at least six hits off each of his last three albums — no-one else has had three albums that have yielded so many hits in a whole career, let alone consecutively.

The week's other impressive chart debut comes from Rod Stewart, whose Tom Traubert's Blues (Waltzing Matilda) debuts at number eight.

The first single from Rod's upcoming album, it marks a return to form after his last single, Broken Arrow, peaked at number 54, and is already more successful than the first. Downtown Train, which reached number 10 nearly three years ago. That too followed a single that failed to make the Top 50.

The irony is that none of Waits' own singles, of which there have been many in the past 20 years, has ever reached even the Top 75. Still, Rod's hit is a nice pre-birthday present for Waits, who will be 43 next Monday.

Albumwise, it's the quietest week of the year, with Undercover's Check Out The Groove the highest new entry at number 26. Sales bound forward by a further 25 per cent week-on-week, as the Christmas shopping season gets into full swing, though the level of sales 16 per cent behind the same week last year is disappointing. Alan Jones
