CHART FOCUS

It's sales have declined considerably from the massive peak they reached, but Whitney Houston's I Will Always Love You stays number one by a very comfortable margin, with no immediate threat from any current release. The song has already endured for six weeks to become the longest running number one by a solo woman since 1970, when Freda Payne enjoyed a six week residency with Band Of Gold.

Though it was released 10 weeks ago, I Will Always Love You looks likely to have a longer and slower burnout than most number ones, not least because the movie from which it is taken — The Bodyguard — has only just opened, and has followed the single and its soundtrack album to the top of its chart.

After the top three was completely logjammed for two weeks — Whitney, Michael Jackson and Charles & Eddie all held firm in December — the latter duo take a dip this week, allowing Take That's Could It Be magic to progress to three.

With fewer new and significant singles released last week than has recently become customary at this time of year, the post-Christmas shake-out is less violent than usual. A few records — notably Rod Stewart's Tom Traubert's Blues, down 20 places, and Cliff Richard's I Still Believe In You, which is off 29 notches, make dramatic declines, but old hits are hanging around in significant numbers. Eight which peaked a fortnight or more ago are reclaiming the Top 40 this week, including records by the Shamen, The Prodigy,

Madonna, Stereo MCs, Heaven 17, 808 State/UB40, Arrested Development and Boyz II Men.

Arrested Development also has one of the week's highest debuts, via their latest single Mr. Wendal/Revolution, which debuts at number eight even though the group has vetoed the release of the hottest mix (The Perfecto Mix) of Mr. Wendal. The week's other Top 10 debut comes from Snap's Exterminate, which arrives at number seven, easily beating the number 13 debut of their chart-topper Rhythm Is A Dancer. Since that hit, of course, the group has changed its line-up, with rapper Turbo B and singer Thea Austin both departing for pastures new.

Making a rare and welcome visit to the Top 20 this week are Jesus Jones whose latest single The Devil You Know debuts at number 19. Of the nine singles they have released in the past four years, only one has fared better, that being International Bright Young Things, which reached number seven. Alan Jones
