CHART FOCUS

2 Unlimited's No Limit continues to reign at number one. It has been the country's best selling single for five weeks now, and is showing a tenacity that is admirable, given that it has already been widely licensed, and is having its sales boosted by the very obvious manipulation in which it appears, these being Hits '93 Volume 1, Mega Dance — The Power Zone and D-Frost — 20 Global Dance Warnings, which are placed at number one, five and 10 respectively on the compilation chart.

No Limit is likely to be seriously threatened by Shaggy's Oh Carolina next week, however. Note that there are no locally produced records in contention for the chart throne, the last British number one being Sleeping Satellite, five months ago.

With Shaggy at number two, Shabba Ranks's reissued Mr Loverman at number 12 (it reached number 23 when first released last year) and Snow in at number 24 with Informer, reggae is going through one of its more successful phases at present.

Highest new entry this week is Iron Maiden's limited edition release Fear Of The Dark (Live), which debuts at number eight. The most successful metal band ever in singles terms, Iron Maiden have enjoyed seven consecutive Top 10 hits.

Madonna's Bad Girl experiences a significant downturn in sales, but is lucky enough to be in a weak section of the chart, and thus moves up a notch to number 10, bringing her Top 10 hit score to an impressive 29 from 31 releases. It's likely, however, that it will go down as one of her least successful records, even though it has caused a minor resurgence of interest in her album Erotica.

Meanwhile, Lenny Kravitz, who helped to write Maddy's hit Justify My Love, debuts at number one with his album Are You Gonna Go My Way. It's third time lucky for Lenny, who reached number 56 with Let Love Rule in 1990 and number eight with 1991's Mama Said. His success is all the more admirable in that he beat off a strong challenge from Sting's Ten Summoner's Tales, the former Police man having seen each of his last two albums debut at one.

Moving into third place behind Kravitz and Sting, Eric Clapton's Unplugged gains its highest placing yet. In the wake of his Grammy successes, it moves to number one in America. It is his first number one album there since 1969, when he was a member of Blind Faith, who topped the list with their only album.
