CHART FOCUS

The top four singles remain unchanged this week, but Freddie Mercury's 1985 disappointment Living On My Own (it peaked at number 50) makes the week's highest debut at number five in its No More Brothers remix.

Madonna also does her best to shake up the Top 10, as Rain debuts at number seven. It's her 32nd Top 10 hit in total, and the fifth to be lifted from her current album Erotica.

Meanwhile, Whitney Houston snares her fourth hit from The Bodyguard soundtrack, which also houses Lisa Stansfield's Someday (I'm Coming Back) and S.O.U.L. System's It's Gonna Be A Lovely Day hits.

REM's Automatic For The People has also spun off five hits, though the latest seems likely to be the smallest - Nightswimming debuted at number 27 last week, but slips a notch to number 28.

Automatic For The People has sold well over 1,200,000 and is the biggest selling album of 1993 thus far.

Numerous other albums re-enter the chart this week as part of a PolyGram repromotion. These include hits compilations by artists including Jimi Hendrix, Tears For Fears, Barry White, The Bee Gees and Joe Cocker, while the same company's temporary policy of reducing the INXS catalogue to mid-price results in the group having three albums in the chart simultaneously.

Even more impressively, PolyGram's two Abba hits albums make spectacular moves following last week's screening of the light-hearted documentary A For Abba and Abba - The Concert on BBC1. The former chart-topper Gold - Greatest Hits soars from number 38 to number eight, and More Abba Gold - More Abba Hits sprints from number 69 to number 16.

At the top of the chart, UB40 continue ahead of U2, this pair looking to frustrate Michael Ball's attempts to make it two number one albums in as many releases with Always. But the big surprise - though not to those who read the many glowing reviews it has garnered in both the inky and the important monthly music press - is the number four debut of Smashing Pumpkins' Siamese Dream. Two years ago, the Chicago band's debut album Gish failed to chart at all.

Their latest album was produced by Butch Vig, who also masterminded Nevermind, the breakthrough album of Nirvana, to whom they are frequently and favourably compared.
