

● Culture Beat score second hit ● Ol' Blue Eyes debuts at number five

CHART FOCUS

The half term school holiday gave sales a significant boost last week, especially singles. At other times of the year even this week's number five - The Goodmen's Give It Up - would be number one with the sales it achieved. At the top of the tree Meat Loaf seems secure for another week, although Bryan Adams' strong showing may yet win him his second number one hit.

Leading the parade of newcomers are Culture Beat, whose second hit Got To Get It debuts at number seven. The group's first hit Mr Vain is the year's seventh biggest seller. The German-based group is one of a posse of continental acts who are turning out pop/dance hits with increasing success. Two other members of this band are MC Sar - in at 61 with Another Night - and the Captain Hollywood Project, whose More And More enters at number 34 on Pulse 8 a year and a week after peaking at number 113 on the Debut label.

As well as forming part of the Euro-push on the chart, it's one of three singles reissued last week to immediately gain the Top 40 slot they initially missed out on. The others: Juliet Roberts' Free Love, which debuts at number 25 a year and a half after it peaked at number 83, and the Time Frequency's Real Love, which debuts at number 11, having reached number 60 some 17 months ago. All are remixed and the Time Frequency record is the group's third consecutive number one in Scotland (they're from Glasgow), even beating Meat Loaf, though Meat holds a 6:1 sales advantage nationally.

Ol' Blue Eyes Is Back: The album chart is 35 years old this week, and the top five are the oldest they have been in the history of the chart. While Take That have an average age of 21, Meat Loaf is 45, Diana Ross is 49, Bette Midler is 47 and Frank Sinatra is 77. Frank's Duets album debuts at number five, and is his 51st to make the listings, though it's the first of new material since the Quincy Jones produced L.A. Is My Lady in 1964. Frank is the oldest artist ever to chart an album of new material, replacing John Lee Hooker, and it's perhaps fitting he should establish the new record on the chart's birthday, since way back in 1958 he was number two in the very first chart with Come Fly With Me.

Currently touring the UK, Whitney Houston takes a fifth Top 15 hit from the Bodyguard sound track as Queen Of The Night debuts at number 14. She hit number one with I Will Always Love You, number four with I'm Every Woman, number three with I Have Nothing and number 15 with Run To You. The album has now sold 1,400,000 copies, and remains the biggest selling album of 1993.

In second place is REM's Automatic For The People, which was also one of the biggest sellers of 1992, and which slipped to number 21 last week, after 55 consecutive weeks in the Top 20. It retains its Top 20 placing this week. Coming up fast behind them both is, inevitably, Meat Loaf's Bat Out Of Hell II - Back Into Hell, which has gone double platinum quicker than any album this year, and is currently selling 100,000 copies a week. It's certain to overtake The Best Dance Album In The World...Ever to become the year's third biggest seller this week, and, with huge sales the order of the day in November and December, may yet beat The Bodyguard.

While on the subject of big sales, let's hear a big 'Wow' for Pearl Jam, whose Vs. album debuts at number one in America this week, with an estimated sale of more than 950,000. Even Bigger is The Jungle Book which debuts at number one in the UK video chart this week, breaking all sales records, with more than a million copies sold in a single week.
