● Twist And Shout holds off D:Ream challenge ● A&M takes top two LPs

CHART FOCUS

The post-Christmas slump hits album business fairly severely again this week, where a 60% fall from the previous week is compounded by a further 31% decline.

The less seasonal singles market is perkier; it follows a 44% decline to normal levels with a 4% rise.

Even though it stays at number one, Chaka Demus & Pliers' Twist And Shout doesn't share in this bonus, as its sales are actually down. It now stands a real chance of losing pole position next week to D:Ream's Things Can Only Get Better, which vaults from number 10 to number two.

Whatever happens to it next week, however, Twist And Shout has exceeded original expectations.

When originally scheduled it was styled as being by the Taxi Gang and Jack Radics featuring Chaka Demus & Pliers, and was considered to be of less importance than the re-issue of Chaka Demus & Pliers' Murder She Wrote single, which was to follow it a week later.

Had that happened, there's little doubt Twist And Shout would have been marginalised, but a judicious bit of rescheduling and a revamped artist credit ensured that chart history was written differently.

Torsten Fenslau, who wrote, produced and masterminded the career of Culture Beat is dead, but the group's impressive run continues. They complete a hat-trick of hits this week as Anything is the highest of 17 singles chart newcomers at number five. Mr Vain reached number one and Got To Get It peaked at number four. Ten years ago this week, Cyndi Lauper made her chart debut with Girls Just Wanna Have Fun. It went on to reach number two, and remains her biggest hit to date. This week she registers her seventh Top 40 hit as Who Let In The Rain climbs 20 notches to number 32.

A&M has the top two albums for the first time in its history this week, but while it will be applauding Bryan Adams' success, it must be a little disappointed that Dina Carroll didn't take the title. Carroll's So Close album was just that this week, only narrowly being beaten by its label-mate. It would have been the perfect week for it to be number one; it was released exactly a year ago, and, having spawned six hits, it sold its millionth copy last week. It's the first debut album by a woman to reach a million sales since Kylie Minogue's Kylie - The Album in 1988.

Chart history is full of successful trios, of which one of the most durable is the Bee Gees, currently in the Top 10 with For Whom The Bell Tolls.

Another, presumably temporary, trio debuts inside the Top 10 this week: Bryan Adams, Rod Stewart and Sting, with All For Love. The most experienced "new" act in chart history (they have upwards of 100 hits to their credit), they have already sold more than a million copies of their single in the US, where it currently stands at number two.

Meanwhile, the UK falls into line with much of the rest of Europe as Adams' hits retrospective So Far So Good (which doesn't feature All For Love) moves to the top of the albums chart at its ninth attempt.

The album has been particularly popular in Ireland, where it debuted at number one and has so far stayed there for nine weeks in a row.

Finally, defying superstition, Def Leppard register their 13th Top 40 hit with Action, which also gave the Sweet their 13th Top 40 hit in 1975. The Sweet went into a tailspin shortly afterwards, only adding two to their total, but Def Leppard look a little more solid. Action is the first Def Leppard hit not at least partially written by a band member
