Dion top as Brits impact shows

SALES

Celine Dion's Think Twice enjoys a fifth week at number one, and on Saturday it became the fifth Sony single to sell a million in the UK and only the fourth by a woman on any label – after Jennifer Rush, Whitney Houston and Whigfield.

At the same time, Dion's album The Colour Of My Love obligingly clocked up its 600,000th sale at the weekend and retained its leadership of the album chart for a sixth week. The Canadian star has, therefore, been simultaneously number one on both charts for five weeks – the first act to do so since The Beatles with the single I Feel Fine and the album Beatles For Sale in 1964/5. It was the third time they achieved the feat, while Elvis Presley and Cliff Richard managed it once apiece. Dion is joining an exclusive club indeed.

Showing a different sort of tenacity, Nightcrawlers' Push The Feeling On is the highest new entry at 10. First released by 4th & Broadway in October 1992, it failed to chart, but after remixing by US DJ Mark Kinchen it became a minor US hit, reaching 80 in October 1993 – a rare achievement for a British act without a hit at home. A year later the mixes were licensed to firr and reached 22 here, but, certain that the record could achieve even more, the label reissued it again last week and receives suitable reward.

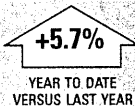

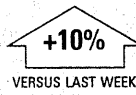

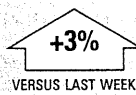

Elton John's Believe debuts at 16, to record his 50th Top 40 single. It was no doubt helped by his appearance on last Monday's Brit Awards, as is his greatest hits album which re-enters at 70. It is not the only album boosted by the annual awards show; Blur's album of the year Parklife bounces up 10 places to 2, while Oasis's Definitely Maybe moves up to 8 and Eddi Reader's self-titled album re-enters at 72. Even titles which have stood still – by live Brits performers Eternal, Madonna, REM, M People and Sting – record sales increases on the previous week.

The album chart is dominated by a slew of mid-price titles, led by six albums by The Smiths including the TV-advertised Singles package which enters at 5. The Smiths' titles, although previously available on Rough Trade, enter the charts for the first time since being released by WEA.

The city of Bristol also claims a powerful influence on the album chart with three acts in the Top 20; Tricky's Maxinquaye album debuts at 3, while Massive Attack's Protection surges to 8 – re-released with doppelganger No Protection – to join Portishead's 200,000-selling Dummy which falls slightly to 14.

AIRPLAY

When Radio One premiered the new Take That single as part of its Brit Awards broadcast last Monday night, it gave the record its first radio exposure some six weeks before its release. In doing so it provided another example of RCA's bold policy of soliciting airplay way up-front of release.

The strategy worked very well for them on Annie Lennox's *No More I Love You*s, which started getting exposure four weeks before it came out and is still the country's most-played record after seven weeks on the airwaves. But RCA's master-stroke thus far must be the two month lead-in they gave to the Crash Test Dummies' hit Mmm Mmm Mmm Mmm, which debuted inside the Top Five of the sales chart last April as pent up demand was released.

Early airplay can be a mixed blessing though – audiences can tire of songs and while they may have bought it two weeks into its airplay cycle they may not be so eager a month later. For dealers too it can be a problem, as those already inundated with requests for the new Take That single will surely attest. For the record, it's called Back For Good and it's out on April 3.

Madonna's last single Take A Bow was a more popular choice for radio programmers than for consumers, but Bedtime Story inverts that situation. It debuted at number four last week on the sales countdown while loitering in 28th place on airplay – a lowly position for the material girl. Plays improve this week and the record moves up to number 16 though it appears that some of the increase was grudgingly granted as a concession to its sales success.

PJ & Duncan are enjoying their fifth hit in well under a year with Our Radio Rocks, but radio very definitely isn't rocking their sound. It's true that the track accelerates from number 56 to 25, but that's due primarily to support from Radio One whose higher audience ratings lift the record even though well over a hundred single log more plays across the Media Monitor panel. Five hits in a year and a radio-friendly record about the medium itself – what more do programmers want?

Finally, apologies to Radio One for suggesting last week that they haven't had Celine Dion's Think Twice amongst their 20 most played discs. They have, but they've moved on. Meanwhile, it's interesting to note that Dion's recording of The Power Of Love is getting played more frequently as an alternative to Think Twice and it moves up, below the line, by around 300 places this week.
