THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS

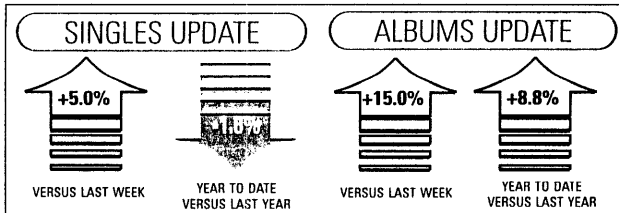

England's soccer challenge for Euro '96 faltered on Wednesday but not before the Baddiel & Skinner &

Lightning Seeds' official England song, Three Lions, had established an unassailable lead at the top of the chart. In the latter half of the week, Fugees' Killing Me Softly was back at the top of the sales pyramid but over the whole seven-day sales period Three Lions sold nearly 140,000 copies (an 86% increase, compounding a 69% leap the week before) while Killing Me Softly debuted at number one, and was off the top for four weeks before returning to the position.

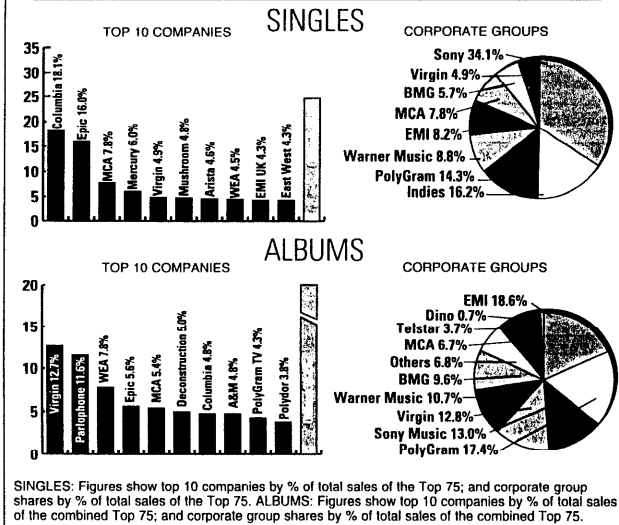

Many songs have had two stints at number one in the same tour of chart duty – most latterly Mr Blobby's self-titled 1993 abomination – but only one has returned to the summit after a longer absence – The Beatles' She Loves You, which bided its time while two other records spent a total of six weeks on top in 1963 before moving back to the apex.

Killing Me Softly's sales declined a mere 9% last week, and it has now sold more than 800,000 copies. It seems very likely to give Sony its third million seller of the Nineties, emulating Celine Dion's Think Twice and Michael Jackson's Earth Song. Sony has four of the UK's top five singles for the third week in a row, with Kula Shaker replacing Mariah Carey in the upper echelon. In the first half of 1996, the four biggest-selling US singles acts in the UK are all Sony artists – Fugees, 3T, Michael Jackson and Celine Dion. It's also noticeable that with Japan's Sony holding positions one, two, four and five in this week's singles chart, and Australia's Mushroom taking third and sixth place (the latter via its associated Infectious label), there are no European or US companies represented in the chart's most important positions.

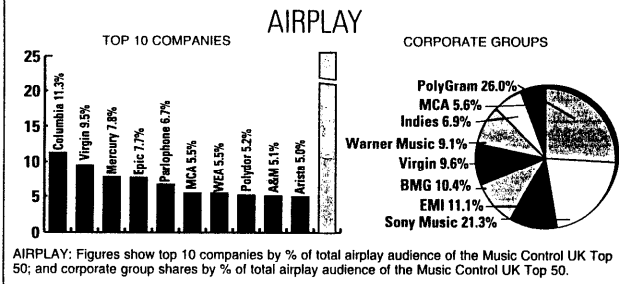

Three classic, but very different, Seventies albums return to the chart this week – Jeff Wayne's musical version of The War Of The Worlds at number 25, the Sex Pistols' Never Mind The Bollocks at 45 and The Who's Quadrophenia at 47. The War Of The Worlds was digitally remastered last year, sparking a return to the chart then, when it peaked at number 26. Its latest incarnation includes four remixes. Never Mind The Bollocks – the only one of the three to reach number one – is doing well because of the Pistols' reunion tour, their appearance on Top Of The Pops on Friday and a newly released doublepack pairing Bollocks with Spunk, a collection of live and rare tracks. Finally, Quadrophenia has been digitally remastered as part of Polydor's ongoing restoration of The Who catalogue, and its release neatly coincides with the group's reformation and performance of the magnum opus on Saturday in Hyde Park.

At the top of the album chart, however, the commonwealth rules yet again. Following the Canadian handover last week, when Bryan Adams vacated the throne in favour of Alanis Morissette, the Aussie/New Zealand group Crowded House debut at number one this week with Recurring Dream, a retrospective which also includes a live album. Recurring Dream is the group's first number one and sold 80,000 copies last week, making its disbandment at this point somewhat poignant.

Other album highlights in brief: Oasis's (What's The Story) Morning Glory? departs from the Top 10 after 38 consecutive weeks... Former Eternal star Louise debuts at number seven, topping the number eight peak climbed by her former colleagues' I Am Blessed album last December... The Very Best Of Patsy Cline is the late country star's fourth hits compilation to chart in the Nineties, more than 30 years after her death... Neil Young's Broken Arrow album debuts at 17, his eighth charted LP already in the Nineties, and the 32nd of his career. Alan Jones

A marginal decline in monitored plays – down six – and audience – off 2% – don't stop Fugees' Killing Me

Softly from emphatically topping the Airplay chart again this week. Patriotic pandering to England's football cause hoists Baddiel & Skinner & Lightning Seeds' Three Lions to number two, its best posting in six weeks on the airwaves, though it poses no real challenge. The gap between the number of plays registered by Killing Me Softly and its nearest rival, Mariah Carey's Always Be My Baby, is 530, the biggest ever between the most and second most played discs.

Three Lions registered a comparatively paltry 1011 impressions, though many of these were on stations with larger audiences, hence its number two posting on the chart. Waving the flag most furiously for England, ironically, was Dublin-based Atlantic 252, which imposed Three Lions on its (mostly northern England and Scotland) audience 61 times last week.

Gary Barlow continues to struggle. Having slipped 24-37 last week, he makes a marginal recovery, moving up to number 33 this week as his debut solo single Forever Love scoops an extra 60 plays. His former Take That colleague and now bitter rival Robbie Williams started to pick up airplay for his debut solo single Freedom on Thursday, setting up an intriguing battle between the two. Williams is likely to benefit from this in the short term, and will also gain plays as a result of the familiarity of the song, previously a big hit for George Michael.

With few compelling new releases being delivered to radio, the chart is rather stagnant at present. This week there are just four new entries to the Top 50 – Sleeper's Nice Guy Eddie at number 27, Queen's Let Me Live at 41, Eric Clapton's Change The World at 45 and Love Tribe's Stand Up at 47, of which only Sleeper and Eric Clapton will make any significant impression.

The Sleeper track is, however, almost entirely dependent at present on strong support from Radio One, where 26 plays make it the station's new number one. The absence of strong new songs brings the Rembrandts' I'll Be There For You (partly fuelled by the new season of Friends on TV) and two Oasis oldies – Wonderwall and Don't Look Back In Anger – back into the Top 50.

Having played the life out of Search For The Hero and One Night In Heaven, Atlantic 252 is now putting another M People oldie, Renaissance, on heavy rotation. It played the 1994 hit 34 times last week, placing it 15th on its playlist. Alan Jones
