THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS

The Spice Girls' Wannabe single remains buoyant, and registers a fifth week at number one. It sold a further 125,000 copies last week, to bring its six week tally to over three quarters of a million. It still has a handsome lead at the top, selling almost exactly twice as many copies last week as the new number two, which is 3T's Why, featuring their famous uncle Michael Jackson. The 3T single can be expected to eat substantially into Spice Girls' lead next week, especially as the third format of Why - a second CD featuring Todd Terry's dance mixes of Tease Me - is released today (19).

None of this week's top five singles artists - Spice Girls, 3T, The Backstreet Boys, Los Del Rio and OMC - had had a hit a year ago, making this the freshest top five of the Nineties - even if the two main protagonists in Los Del Rio are 48-year-old veterans with more than 30 domestically-released albums to their name in Spain. Their Macarena hit continues its yo-yoing chart progress this week, slipping two notches to number four, having now sold over 250,000 copies.

Ditching their Byker Grove alter-egos of P.J. & Duncan may not have significantly impacted their music, but Ant & Dec, as they are now called, make a successful transition, debuting at number 10 with their new single. It's their 11th hit, but only one has gone higher; 1994's Let's Get Ready To Rumble reached number nine.

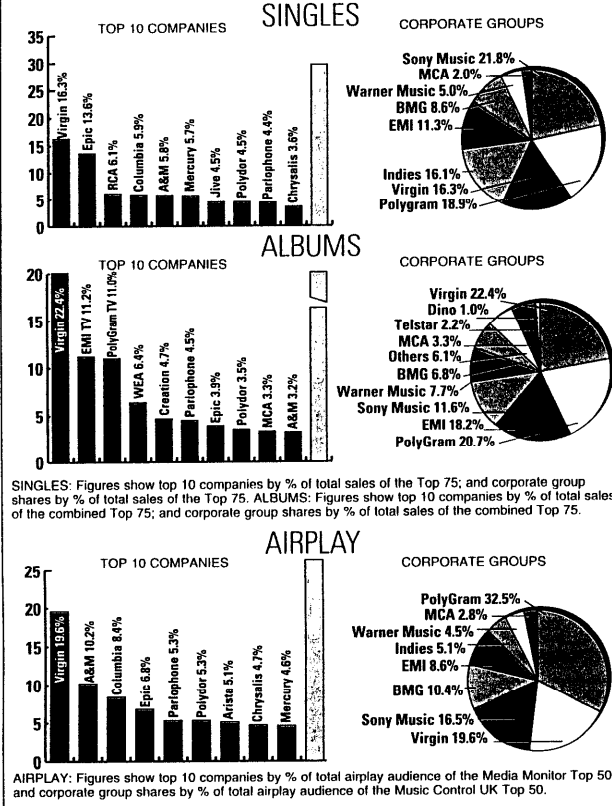

Meanwhile, new heart-throbs on the block The Backstreet Boys finally emulate their pan-European success, debuting at number three with We've Got It Goin' On - a vast improvement on the same song's original 1995 peak of number 54. The five-member American band, whose average age is 20, are still relatively unknown in their homeland.

Generally negative publicity about their Knebworth gigs has done Oasis no harm at all. Their singles and albums continue to gain ground, with four singles now ensconced in the Top 75, while their albums Definitely Maybe and (What's The Story) Morning Glory? moving up 20-12 and 4-2 respectively. Last week's mention of Morning Glory? was pruned for reasons of space, and was given a new and wrong meaning in translation. What would have appeared was the fact that it is now the biggest-selling album by a UK act worldwide in the past decade, selling 3m copies in the US, 3m in Britain and 4m elsewhere for a global sale of 10m - and counting.

The album which keeps Oasis off the top of the UK chart this week is Alanis

Morissette's Jagged Little Pill, which completes its ninth week at number one. That equals the record weeks at number one in the UK by a female solo artist - set, ironically, by Madonna, who just happens to own Alanis' label, Maverick. Jagged Little Pill also returns to the top of the US chart this week. It's the first time it has been number one in both countries at the same time, having last vacated the US throne the week it first climbed to the summit here (May 4). Its US achievements are, if anything, more impressive than its British ones - it has spent 10 weeks at number one there, and was certified platinum for the 12th time (12m sales) last week. The Republica and Crush singles mentioned here last week - Ready To Go and Jellyhead - continue to make quiet progress in the US Hot 100. It should be noted that, aside from being rare British successes for records which failed to make the Top 40 at home, both songs are co-written by John Male. Based in London's Ladbroke Grove, Male has previously penned hits like The Day You Went Away for Soul Family Sensation and should have another British hit to his name with the new Sarah Cracknell single Anymore, released today.

Simultaneously topping the Radio One, Capital, ILR and overall airplay charts has thus far proved an elusive feat, but Dodgy's Good Enough this week becomes the first record to achieve it.

After three weeks at retail, and several more on the airwaves, Good Enough is going from strength to strength. It was played 1,662 times last week - over 400 times more than any other record - and had an audience nearly 20% bigger than its nearest rival. Currently in its second week at number one, it appears to be far more ahead to spend at least two more at the top.

Regular observers will know that the airplay chart is much more slow-moving than its sales cousin, the median life of an airplay hit being more than twice as long as its sales chart career. Bearing that in mind, it seems that although it emulated its sales success by topping the airplay list, support was given only grudgingly to Gary Barlow's Forever Love, with stations dropping the record very quickly. This much is obvious from its steep 1-9-16-39 airplay chart decline, which is the fastest on record.

Atlantic 252 is probably the last station to add Alanis Morissette's Head Over Feet, unless, that is, Kiss FM's programming undergoes a radical re-think. The Dublin-based station played Head Over Feet some 23 times last week, but support for the song did not diminish its enthusiasm for Alanis's last hit, Ironic, which remains at the top of its playlist, with another 58 plays last week. Atlantic 252 is very keen on Alanis, and also played Alisha's Attic's I Am I Feel - very much in the same style - some 53 times last week. They're also very keen on Oasis. A fortnight ago, the six-month-old Don't Look Back In Anger was its third most-played track with 54 spins. Last week that was slashed to 17, causing it to drop to number 25, but that was largely offset by renewed support for the year-old Roll With It, which was played 25 times, enough to earn it a number 17 re-entry on the playlist.

The Backstreet Boys' We've Got It Goin' On is a prime example of a teen record which relies more on other media than radio for support. TV and print exposure for the group has been heavy and widespread recently, making We've Got It Goin' On an obvious hit for weeks. But radio has been slow to add the record. It nearly doubled its radio audience last week, but is still outside the Top 50 at number 54. It will make gains again this week, not least because its number three sales status will earn it chart show plays.
