CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Forty-nine-year-old French keyboards wizard Jean-Michel Jarre registers his biggest hit since his 1977 debut Oxygene Part IV this week, entering at number 12 with Rendez-Vous 98, in partnership with Apollo 440. Jarre's ninth hit in all, it is a remake of Fourth Rendez-Vous, a number 65 hit for him in 1986, and serves as the theme to ITV's coverage of the World Cup. It further cements Jarre's solid renaissance in the past 18 months, which has also seen him score number 17 and 21 hits with Oxygene 8 and Oxygene 10. Rendez-Vous 98 is already a bigger hit than the BBC World Cup theme, the rather more highbrow Pavane by Faure, which moves 26-20 this week. In turn, the BBC theme is faring better than its Euro 96 opener, an adaptation of Beethoven's Ode To Joy. Performed by the BBC Concert Orchestra and the BBC Symphony Chorus, it peaked at number 36.

demand for it plummeted the following day. Aside from Because We Want To, the only other new entry to the Top 10 this week is nine peak of last year's She Makes My Nose Bleed.

2 Unlimited and Clock are very much two of a kind. Signed to small indie labels and almost entirely ignored by radio, each has managed to put together an impressive string of pop/dance hits over the past few years – but both falter somewhat with their new singles. Clock ticked up number 11 hits with their last two releases – remakes of U Sexy Thing and That's The Way I Like It – but crash to earth with Rock Your Body, which debuts this week at number 30. Unless it improves, their 12th hit will be their least successful since their third, Keep The Fires Burning, in 1994. Meanwhile, 2 Unlimited have undergone a complete makeover since their last hit, moving labels (from PWL to Big Life) and completely changing their line-up. Their first hit in their new incarnation, Wanna Get Up, barely scrapes into the Top 40 at number 38. None of their previous 13 hits peaked lower than number 22.

by ALAN JONES

In the purplest of his purple patches, Prince put together a run of 12 consecutive Top Five albums between All Around The World in A Day in 1985 and Come In 1994. Since then he's had more than a little difficulty in maintaining his chart impetus. His much publicised tie-up with EMI ended nearly as acrimoniously as his previous "enslavement" by Warner Music, and his only album for the label, the triple-CD Emancipation, peaked at number 18. Four months ago, his independently distributed four-CD set The Crystal Ball didn't even dent the Top 75. Now he's signed his NPG label to BMG, and the first fruits of that collaboration, in the form of a New Power Generation album entitled Newpower Soul, debut this week at number 38, with fewer than 4,000 buyers. Essentially a Prince album – he wrote and produced and sings on the album – it seems destined for a quick demise, although there is talk of an upcoming tour and possibly a single, both of which may yet turn around his fortunes.

The continuing success of their current single Dreams – which has sold 200,000 copies in the last nine weeks, and is still in the Top 10 of the airplay chart – helps The Corrs' Talk On Corners album to return to number one. But it's a rather hollow victory for the group, since Talk On Corners sold a mere 24,000 copies last week – fewer than any album has sold when topping the chart in the past two years.

Talk On Corners first topped the chart a fortnight ago, on its 30th appearance in the Top 75. The last album to be further into its chart career when it first reached number one was Alanis Morissette's Jagged Little Pill, which took 37 weeks to reach the summit, finally arriving there in May 1996. Robbie Williams' Life Thru A Lens had the lengthiest gestation between Jagged Little Pill and Talk On Corners, taking 23 weeks to reach number one. Talk On Corners has now sold over 415,000 copies. The Corrs' previous album Forgiven, Not Forgotten, which has benefited greatly from Talk On Corners' high profile, has sold nearly 160,000 copies to date.

SALES UPDATE

Thirty-two years after the first Beach Boys compilation – Best Of The Beach Boys – entered the chart, they're back with their ninth charted hits retrospective, the concise Greatest Hits. Naturally sharing much of its contents with the 1970 number five album of the same name, it is nevertheless a new compilation, and not a re-issue. The Beach Boys' back catalogue has also been extensively reworked at budget prices, and the wonder is not that the latest Greatest Hits album has charted as low as number 28, but that there are enough people who don't already own one of its numerous predecessors to buy this one. Its debut comes two weeks after the group's former leader Brian Wilson reached number 30 with his new album Imagination.

Fourteen years after their last hit album, Ian Dury & The Blockheads return with Mr Love Pants. Debuting at number 57 this week, and very reminiscent of the style which saw them reach number two with their 1979 album Do It Yourself, it is the debut chart entry for the Ronnie Harris label, and brings Dury's tally of charted albums to six.

COMPILATIONS

Last week's massive chart influx saw the sector expand by 27%, with new entries in each of the top four positions in the chart, via Fresh Hits 98, Clubber's Guide To Ibiza, Mixed Emotions II and Non Stop Hits. This week the same quartet fills the same positions, and all four return almost identical sales figures to a week ago, which means that Fresh Hits 98 still has a three-to-one advantage over Clubber's Guide To Ibiza, selling 78,000 copies last week, compared with its rival's 26,000. Debuting just behind this group, Sisters Of Swing 98 is the latest in PolyGram TV's successful series of female R&B compilations.

City Of Angels has replaced The Wedding Singer at the top of the UK box set chart but doesn't quite have the strength to overtake it as the best-selling soundtrack album...yet. The Wedding Singer dips 15-18 this week, while City Of Angels also moves down 18-19. The latter album should be the long-term victor, however, as it includes Alanis Morissette's otherwise unavailable Uninvited and the Goo Goo Dolls' excellent single Iris.

Soccer compilations are in decline, with The Best Football Anthem In The World...Ever! dipping 22-34, while the almost identically titled All New – The Best Football Anthems In The World...Ever! slides 9-15 and the official World Cup album Allez! Olé! Olé! slumps 12-17. The latter album's decline is rather surprising, as events in France are about to reach a climax, and it includes several exclusives such as Sash!'s remake of the old Village People/Pet Shop Boys hit Go West.
