CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Sales of more than 123,000 last week were enough to earn Lenny Kravitz his first ever number one with Fly Away. It arrives at the summit on the sixth birthday of his previous biggest hit – Are You Gonna Go My Way, which reached number four – and exactly three years after the last number one hit previously associated with a TV commercial. That was Babylon Zoo's Spaceman, which was used to advertise Levi jeans. Fly Away has been used since autumn to advertise the Peugeot 206 car. Lenny wrote and produced Fly Away himself. His previous biggest hit as a songwriter was Madonna's Justify My Love, a number two single in 1990. Fly Away is the third single taken from Lenny's current album 5, If You Can't Say No reaching number 48 last May and I Belong To You hitting rock bottom, peaking at number 75 last October.

The sequence of one week chart toppers continues, with Blondie's Maria making way for Lenny Kravitz's Fly Away, the 11th different number one in as many weeks. Since Cher topped for the last of her seven weeks with Believe, there have been seven days reigns by B*Witched, the Spice Girls, Chef, Steps, Fatboy Slim, 911, Offspring, Armand Van Helden & Duane Harden and Blondie. Whether or not Lenny is also a one week wonder remains to be seen – but the smart money is on Brittany Spears to be next week's chart topper. The record sequence of one week number ones was highlighted in this column and has been picked up by many others in the media, usually being proffered as proof that the singles chart is a farce, and that having a number one is meaningless. The reality is that although no record has managed to retain pole position since December, sales of number ones are extremely healthy. Comparing the last 10 weeks to the same

 Also, no fewer than 16 of last year's number ones sold more than 500,000 copies – an unprecedented number. Most also sparked considerable album sales for the artists concerned. There may be more of them but number one singles are still a precious commodity.

 Returning to this week's chart, it's interesting to note the debuts of no fewer than three family groups in the Top 20, with two sisters and a cousin (Kleshay), four brothers including triplets (Moffatts) and three brothers (Next Of Kin) proving that the family that stays together plays together. The Moffatts – 15 year old Scott and 14 year olds Bob, Clint and Dave – enter at number 16 with Crazy, the 14th hit of that title, and a subject we will return to next week.
2Pac's impressive run of posthumous hits continues with Changes, the biggest yet, debuting at number three with sales of over 78,000 copies last week. Based on the old Bruce Hornsby hit The Way It Is (number 15, 1986) it's 2Pac's 12th hit – all but the first two having occurred since his death in 1996, including four as Makaveli.

by ALAN JONES

Fatboy Slim's four week reign atop the album chart is over, as You've Come A Long Way, Baby slips to second place, allowing Robbie Williams to return to pole position with I've Been Expecting You. Robbie's album debuted at number one last November, and returned to the summit in January. It sold over 38,000 copies last week, a massive 72% improvement over the previous week. Two factors at play here are Valentine's Day and the increasing exposure given to Robbie's new single Strong. Life Thru A Lens benefits in much the same way, a 71% hike in its week-on-week sales helping it climb 15-10.

Meanwhile, Dr. Hook's Love Songs album jumps 24-8 with a massive 190% improvement in sales to become the third hits album by the group to reach the Top 10, following 1980's Greatest Hits, which reached number two, and 1992's Completely Hooked, a number three album. Two other hits packages which debuted this week made somewhat subdued impacts. Joe Cocker's Greatest Hits at number 24 is 20 places below the peak of his 1992 best of The Legend - The Essential Collection, while Leo Sayer's recent championing by the Sun and others has done him little good. His Definitive Hits Collection debuts at number 35, lower than the peak of his 1993 album All The Best. He was deeply unfashionable then, and it still reached number 26, while a 1979 Very Best Of Leo Sayer album went all the way to number one.

After landing easily their biggest hit single to date with the atypically string driven Beautiful Day, a recent number 11, 3 Colours Red sold more than 10,000 copies of their latest album Revolt last week - good enough for a number 17 debut. In the circumstances, it's surprising to find that their previous album Pure reached number 16 following its release in 1997.

Nine months after reaching number 18, and more than six months after disappearing from the chart, Lenny Kravitz's 5 album returns at number 31. Its evolution is prompted by a massive increase in sales last week following the release of Fly Away as a single.

COMPILATIONS

Once the preserve of flower sellers and chocolate manufacturers, Valentine's Day is becoming very important to record companies, with major improvements in album sales in the week prior to the big day. This year that increase is the biggest yet at 23%, representing an extra 420,000 sales compared to the previous week.

Nowhere is the impact more than in the compilation market, with canny operators getting love compilations onto the market and racked prominently in plenty of time - many of this year's biggest beneficiaries have been around for as much as three months, allowing them to have a bite at the Christmas market too. Last year, the number one album on Valentine's Day was olyGram TV's Love. This year, it's an updated version of the same LP, now a joint venture with warner.esp and re-christened Love Songs. It sold a mind-boggling 86,000 copies last week, more than twice as many copies as the number one artist album by Robbie Williams. Love Songs includes perennials like Truly by Lionel Richie, In Your Eyes by George Benson and Nothing Compares 2 U by Sinead O'Connor but a surprisingly high concentration of newer material, among them the current hits by Cher, Emilia and Steps.

Other love albums making significant upwards progress this week include The Best Sixties Love Album...Ever! (6-2), The Very Best Of The Love Album (10-4), The All Time Greatest Love Songs III (15-9), A Perfect Love II (24-13) and The Greatest Love (30-14).
