CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

SINGLE FACTFILE

She's 19 in December but she's number one in October – teenager Christina Aguilera's million-selling American debut Genie In A Bottle storms to the top of the UK chart this week. Aguilera's single is the fourth number one in a row to debut at number one as a UK release after charting as an import. The record reached number 50 in a five-week run on import, selling 14,000 copies, and follows Eiffel 65's Blue (Da Ba Dee) – which reached number 39 as an import – the Vengaboys' We're Going To Ibiza (number 75) and Lou Bega's Mambo No.5 (number 31). Genie In A Bottle is the fifth number one of the year for the RCA label – beating its previous best of four, set way back in 1961 and equalled in 1962, all of them by Elvis Presley. The 1999 haul includes two singles by Westlife and one apiece by Lou Bega and Blondie, as well as Christina Aguilera.

Christina Aguilera's Genie In A Bottle sold 172,600 copies last week, enough to end Eiffel 65's run atop the singles chart with Blue (Da Ba Dee) which, at three weeks, equalled the longest of the year.

Although the number of singles entering the Top 75 has plummeted by 20% in the past two years, there are more number one hits than ever. So far this year we've had 29, the last 27 of which have debuted at number one. In the whole of 1998 – the year with most number ones to date – there were 30 chart toppers. Barring the unexpected, 1999 looks like becoming the first year in chart history in which no single has managed to stay at number one for four weeks.

After topping the chart with their first four singles, *B*Witched* have to settle for the number four slot this week with their fifth release Jesse Hold On. This means the group can't now match the string of six consecutive number ones with which the Spice Girls opened their chart career. However, the Irish

A month after developing teen idols Lyte Funkie Ones reached number 16 with a single that namechecked former teen idols

New Kids On The Block, a founder member of the latter group makes his solo debut on the chart in impressive style. Jordan Knight, who was a member of NKOTB for 13 hits covering five years, lands at number five this week with Give It To You, on which he garners a co-writer's credit.

We've had numerous hits over the past couple of years bearing a writing credit for the Bee Gees. This week sees another record that should have one (but seems not to) slip into the chart. It's Junior Sanchez's B With U, which debuts at number 31. The first 14 notes – which are also repeated at regular intervals throughout the record – are a speeded-up segment of the Git'b brothers' composition Promises, a track on Barbra Streisand's Guilty album.

Sheffield-born Ann Lee gave Christina Aguilera a good run for her money at the top of the chart this week, with her Euro hit 2 Times selling 152,500 copies to debut at number two.

THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS

ALBUMS

by ALAN JONES

After cooling her heels in runners-up spot for a fortnight – yielding right of way first to Leftfield and then to Tom Jones Shania Twain's Come On Over returns to pole position after selling another 72,700 copies last week. That's enough to shake off a brave challenge from those young blades S Club 7, whose debut album S Club enters at number two. As well as returning to number one, Twain's album crossed the 1m sales barrier on Monday, of which only 179,000 sales were made before 1999. Come On Over is selling remarkably well but still has a little way to go before it claims the best seller of 1999 title, currently held by Boyzone's By Request, which has sold more than 1,075,000 copies so far.

Although the first single, Thursday's Child, peaked at number 16, David Bowie's latest album Hours... has garnered much favourable press and accordingly makes its chart debut at number five this week. The album, which sold 17,000 copies last week, is Bowie's first new material since Earthling, which reached number six in 1997, though he has had two hits albums since then. All told, Bowie has charted 35 albums, 24 of them in the Top 10, and eight of them at number one, and whichever of those figures

ALBUM FACTFILE

Although Tom Jones (aged 59) and David Bowie (51) are placed higher on this week's album chart, 57-year-old Paul McCartney completes the triumvirate of veterans in the Top 20, debuting at 12 with Run Devil Run. While that position doesn't match the number two debut of his last studio set Flaming Pie (1997), it's a fair position for an album made up primarily of raw covers of rock classics put together in just five days. Twelve of the 15 songs are covers, three of them of songs first recorded by Elvis Presley, although there are also three McCartney originals on the album. Run Devil Run is McCartney's 56th charted album, 30 of them as a Beatle, and has far exceeded the chart success of his last rock'n'roll effort, Choba B CCCP - "The Russian Album". Originally for Russian release only, the 1988 album reached number 63 when belatedly released here in 1991.

you use, it puts him firmly among the Top 10 acts of all time.

Last week the BBC screened important documentaries on a couple of bands who enjoyed their greatest popularity in the late Seventies, and one seemed to benefit far more than the other. The Clash were the subject of Westway To The World, which followed the Royle Family on BBC2 on Saturday night, and kick-started their latest retrospective, From Here To Eternity, which debuts this week at number 13, becoming their highest charting album since The Story Of The Clash reached number seven in 1988.

Meanwhile, Monday's BBC1 Omnibus programme, Beneath The Bleach, profiled Blondie and their successful return. It proved to have only a small effect on Atomic/Atomix - The Best Of Blondie, which perked up a bit but still fell a little short of the Top 75 – though it should be said that it has already sold more than 205,000 copies.

COMPILATIONS

When it debuted at number two last week, it looked as though Trance Nation 2 might have blown its chances of reaching number one, but it has now pushed the former incumbent – Top Of The Pops 99 Volume 2 – down to three to become the sixth number one album for the Ministry of Sound label in a remarkable year for the club-linked indie.

Trance Nation 2 features hits such as Better Off Alone by Alice Deejay, Carte Blanche by Veracocha and 1999 by Binary Finary as well as lesser known cuts like Reef by Choral, Sound Piercing by Prototype and Sasha Akram's Asylum. Previous Ministry Of Sound chart toppers thus far in 1999 are The Clubbers Guide To...Ninety Nine (three weeks at number one), Dance Nation Volume 6 (one week), Trance Nation

(three weeks), The Clubbers Guide To Ibiza - Summer 99 (two weeks) and Ibiza Annual (one week). The first Trance Nation album and Clubbers Guide To Ibiza held the title consecutively, giving the label five straight weeks at number one. All this and the company has still to issue the album which has become its traditional best-seller of every year, The Annual, which should be lifting off as usual in December.

The end of its cinematic run has caused a decline in the fortunes of the soundtrack album to the first South Park movie, South Park: Bigger, Longer & Uncut (OST), with sales down by half in the last fortnight. The album has slipped out of the Top 20 compilations after a 14-week residency but rang up its 50,000th sale last Thursday (7 October).
