CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

The Millennium man trounces the Willenium man in the race for chart honours this week, or, to put it another way Williams walks all over Smith. Robbie Williams' She's The One/It's Only Us sold more than 122,000 copies to secure its number one debut, while Will Smith's Will2K enters at number two with a more modest sale of just less than 70,000. Credit where it's due, however, as Smith has scored five consecutive top three hits and his Will2K is his second number two in a row from Willenium which is released today. Smith overcame a challenge from labelmates A1, whose Everytime/Ready Or Not debuts at number three to become – incredibly – their third and biggest hit single in a chart career that spans a mere four months, instantly topping the number six peak of their debut Be The First To Believe and the number five posting of the follow-up The Summertime Of Our Lives.

position for the fifth single in a row is Travis. The last four of those singles have been taken from their current album The Man Who, with the last, Why Does It Always Rain On Me?, becoming their first Top 10 hit. Turn does even better this week, debuting at

SINGLE FACTFILE

Just 14 months after topping the chart as a solo artist for the first time with Millennium, Robbie Williams returns to the summit with his latest, which pairs his cover of the World Party (not Waterboys, as suggested last week) track She's The One, from his album I've Been Expecting You, with the brand new Williams/Guy Chambers composition It's Only Us. The record sold more than 122,000 copies last week and gives Williams his eighth number one in total, the first six of which were as a member of Take That. Williams replaces Geri Halliwell at number one, meaning that for the second week in a row the chart is topped by a defector from one of the decade's two top pop bands, for whom life as a solo artist was expected to be tough. Williams has now equalled former Take That colleague Gary Barlow's haul of number one solo hits.

number eight, and giving the group a psychological advantage over the Stereophonics, who enter at number 11 with Hurry Up And Wait, the fifth single from their album Performance And Cocktails. The latter album is the biggest selling 1999 release by a British act, with 740,000 buyers in the last nine months. The Travis album occupies second place, with more than 640,000 buyers since it was released six months ago.

Last week I accidentally mixed up credits for the Absolute (Paul Wilson and Andy Watkins) with those for Richard Stannard and Matt Rowe. As a result, I credited Stannard with helping to write and produce 11 number one singles in 39 months. In fact, Stannard has been involved in seven number ones as both writer and producer, while Matt Rowe has worked on six. The Absolute have written four and produced five number ones in the same period. All the writers/producers are signed to Native Management, to whom we extend our apologies.

THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS

by ALAN JONES

Previously unknown in the UK despite a recording career spanning more than a decade, Vonda Shepard got her big break as the coffee bar singer in Channel 4's popular Ally McBeal show and she's making the most of it, registering her third hit album in just 13 months this week with the release of Heart & Soul - New Songs From Ally McBeal. The album repeats the formula which made Shepard's first Ally McBeal album a number three hit last year, blending Shepard originals with familiar oldies, among them This Old Heart of Mine, Someday We'll Be Together and A World Without Love. The McBeal association is extremely important as the comparative failure of the unconnected By 7.30 Album Illustrates. Released in June, it reached only number 39 before making a rapid exit from the chart.

Sales of Steps' Steptacular album dipped again last week but with 67,000 buyers it admirably managed to continue its run at the top of the album chart, and has now sold more than 260,000 copies in three weeks.

With four new entries to the Top 10, and seven to the Top 20, sales were up again for the third week in a row, with Five's Invincible making the biggest splash among new entries, ahead of expected blockbusters from Queen (Greatest Hits III) and Cher (The Greatest Hits). Whether or not Five's album did better than their self-titled debut is a matter for debate. Five entered the chart at number one in July 1998 but sold just under 30,000 copies. Invincible enters at four this week but with sales of more than 44,000 - although sales in late November are nearly 50% above July levels. As a percentage of all albums sold on the weeks of their debut, Five accounted for 1.72% while Invincible took 1.79%, making it marginally bigger.

Meat Loaf and Mike Oldfield, to name but two, have found it fruitful to name new albums after old ones in an effort to revive flagging fortunes, with spectacular results from namechecking Bat Out Of Hell and Tubular Bells on sequels - but the formula doesn't seem to have worked too well for Chris Rea, whose new album The Road To Hell - Part 2 debuts this week at number 54, 10 years to the week after his original Road To Hell album topped the chart. Other artists who apparently appear to be in trouble include EMI signings Diana Ross and Eternal. Ross' recent number nine single Not Over You yet should have ensured a good reception for her album Every Day Is A New Day, which has to settle for a lowly number 71 debut, 29 places below the peak of her 1996 album Voice Of Love. Eternal missed the Top 15 for the first time ever with their current hit What'cha Gonna Do but even that couldn't have prepared them for the fact that their self-titled album makes its chart debut at number 87, with fewer than 3,000 takers. Their last album of new material, Before The Rain, reached number three in 1997 while their Greatest Hits album, released the same year, peaked at number two.

COMPILATIONS

Huge Hits 99 takes advantage of the delayed release of Now That's What I Call Music! 44 to enjoy another week atop the compilation chart, with sales of more than 65,000 copies last week securing its third week at the summit and taking its overall sales past the 240,000 mark. Its victory wasn't as easy as expected, however, as Abbamania, the all-star collection of covers of Abba hits which occupied an hour of prime time on ITV last weekend, sold nearly 53,000 copies to debut at number two. The album contains disappointingly un-adventurous covers of a dozen of the Swedish legends' finest, executed in arrangements which are all too similar to but uniformly inferior to the originals, performed by current favourites including Steps, Westlife, Martine

McCutcheon, B*Witched and The Corrs. Its number two placing represents the second highest position gained by a tribute album in the 11 year history of the compilation chart, being inferior only to the number one placing achieved by the Elton John and Bernie Taupin tribute Two Rooms in 1991. That album included artists like Eric Clapton, Kate Bush, Sting, The Who and Tina Turner.

It is easily out performing another tribute album Fire & Skill - The Songs Of The Jam, which debuted last week at number 12, and now dips to number 28. Abbamania has also reminded many people of the superior original Abba recordings, and propels Abba Gold 21-10 and More Abba Gold 102-69 on the artist chart.
