THE OFFICIAL UK CHART SINGLES

CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Oasis's own label debut on Big Brother gives the band its fifth number one hit this week but their association with Creation continues at least at publishing level – though how much will be left for writer Noel Gallagher once other claimants have been paid is anyone's guess. Gallagher has already acknowledged that Go Let It Out contains elements of Johnny Jenkins' recording of I Walk On Gilded Splinters, and could also end up having to shell out a significant amount after claims that the lyrics of the chorus of Go Let It Out are very similar to those of A Bag Of Tools, a religious poem written by R L Sharpe in 1941. Either way, Go Let It Out is an emphatic number one this week, outselling nearest rival Gabrielle's Rise by a margin of more than two to one.

Though knocked off top spot with comparative ease, Rise is selling at a very even pace, with its first three week tallies being 77,500, 87,500 and 83,000. Its Oasis claim their fifth number one and their ninth consecutive top three hit with Go Let It Out, which got off to a flying start on Monday, when it sold 67,000 units but which ended up with a comparatively modest sale of 180,000. Their previous chart-toppers' first-week tallies are as follows: Some Might Say (140,000, May 1995), Don't Look Back In Anger (250,000, March 1996), D'You Know What I Mean? (370,000, July 1997) and All Around The World (112,000, January 1998). Go Let It Out is the first single from the upcoming album Standing On The Shoulder Of Giants, while D'You Know What I Mean was the first single off their last album of new material, Be Here Now, and sold a spectacular 162,000 units on the day of its release, and more than twice as many as Go Let It Out in the week as a whole.

than 900,000 more copies to match the success of the Italian trio's debut hit Blue (Da Ba Dee).

Singles sales last week were the highest of the year, rising to more than 1m for the first time since Christmas, despite the fact there are only 13 new entries to the Top 75. The two main factors at play seem to be the new Oasis single – which claimed a 17% share of the market – and the proximity of Valentine's Day, which seems likely to have been the driving force behind improved chart placings for old campaigners like She's The One by Robbie Williams (up 53-39), Talking In Your Sleep by Martine McCutcheon (51-40) and Imagine by John Lennon (62-45). R Kelly's If I Could Turn Back The Hands Of Time also benefits, rewinding 37-30. Meanwhile, Kelly makes an unscheduled appearance in the Top 75 supporting Puff Daddy on Satisfy You, which debuts at number 73 as a US import.

by ALAN JONES

ALBUM FACTFILE

Gabrielle becomes the first homegrown female solo artist to top the album chart for 18 months this week, finally capturing the number one slot with Rise. The last British woman to have a number one album was Jane McDonald in August 1998, since when the only female solo stars at number one have been Canadians Shania Twain and Celine Dion. Sparked into life by the number one singles success of its title track, Rise has followed a steep trajectory since re-charting last month, moving 38-6-2-1. It sold nearly 57,000 copies last week, some 33% more than the former incumbent, Travis's The Man Who. It is Gabrielle's first number one album, beating the number nine peak of her 1993 debut Find Your Way and the number 11 peak of 1996's Gabrielle. Sales of Rise total 142,000 since its release last October, 118,000 of them this year.

Female solo artists occupy four of the top five slots in the album chart for the first time ever, with Gabrielle's Rise leading the way, followed by Shania Twain's Come On Over (number three), Britney Spears' Baby One More Time (number four) and Macy Gray's On How Life Is (number five). The only act who stopped these women operating a top four shut-out is Travis, who are number two with The Man Who. All five of the above increased their sales last week, and only four albums in the Top 20 (those by Primal Scream, William Orbit, S Club 7 and Westlife) experienced a decline, with artist album sales reaching a new peak for the year at 1,728,000. There are only two months in the year when – long-term, of course – sales rise mid-month, these being December and February. December's rise is obviously due to Christmas, while February's is just as surely due to Valentine's Day gift-buying. That this is so is also underlined by the fact that "lurve men" Barry White and

Marvin Gaye both explode into the Top 10 this week. White's The Collection vaults 22-6 with sales of 18,000 last week placing it just a notch below its original number five peak from way back in 1988. Gaye's album – a new compilation – sold more than 15,000 copies last week. His last Top 10 album was The Very Best Of Marvin Gaye, which reached number three in 1994.

Two albums which have made spectacular progress in the last fortnight are the Stereophonics' Word Gets Around and Fatboy Slim's You've Come A Long Way, Baby. The former album, which reached number six in 1997, but has been absent ever since, has moved 81-49-14, and has even overtaken the Stereophonics' most recent album, Performance And Cocktails, which eases 16-19 this week. You've Come A Long Way, Baby has improved 121-68-26, and is edging ever closer to 1m sales. The reason behind both turnarounds seems to be the price reduction of a significant number of albums distributed by BMV, which are temporarily moved to mid-price and which, with quantity discounts, are available to dealers for less than £5, allowing them to discount them heavily at retail, thus sparking their vastly improved sales.

COMPILATIONS

With Valentine's Day gift-buying high on the agenda, sales of compilations rose by 15% last week, to reach 578,000, comfortably their highest figure of the year. Leading the way, with sales of more than 51,000, the Warner/Universal Music/Global TV collaboration The Love Songs Album vaulted 7-1, selling nearly 20,000 more than runner-up Pure Garage. While that is a highly satisfactory return, it is far fewer than last year's tally of 86,000 achieved by the Warner/Universal title Love Songs, and goes some way to explaining why the increase in sales this year is much lower than the same week last year, when they increased by 35%. Several factors could be at play here – the fact that many punters bought Love Songs last year and could not justify buying its successor (with which it shares many of its tracks) this year; the fact that individual artist love songs albums by Barry White and Marvin Gaye offered a viable alternative; and the fact that Valentine's Day this year is on a Monday, allowing some gift-buying to be put off until Sunday or Monday itself, thus helping to swell the coming week's sales rather than the previous one. Also, with the spectacular success Love Songs achieved last year, several albums already on the market have been placed prominently in record shops this year to try to draw some additional sales – and it is a ploy that seems to have worked, with The Best Lovesongs...Ever! moving 12-8, Woman II improving 16-11, Heartbeat throbbing 27-20, Romantic Adagios pulsing 54-41 and Queer As Folk skipping 44-25...actually, the last one is due to the C4 TV series being repeated ahead of a new season and album.
