THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS SINGLES

CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Universal this week becomes the first corporate group to take all top three places in the singles chart since December 27, 1996, when BMG scored a hat-trick with Dunblane, Toni Braxton and Robert Miles. More remarkably, the Universal hits are all new entries, making it the first company ever to have simultaneous debuts in each of the chart's top three positions. From the top, the medal positions are held by Sonique's It Feels So Good – licensed from indie Serious – with 195,000 sales, S Club 7's Reach (123,500 sales) and It's My Life by Bon Jovi (82,500 sales).

It's My Life is Bon Jovi's 26th hit, of which only one (1994's Always, which peaked at number two) has registered higher. S Club 7's chart record is also impressively consistent. Reach is the group's fourth consecutive Top Five hit, following on from Bring It All Back, S Club Party and Two In A Million/You're My Number One. It is the first single to be extracted from 7, the forthcoming follow-up to last year's number two album, S Club. The first of the four singles, Bring It All Back, remains their only number one to date, having hit the top spot one year and one week ago. While fanbase hits tend to debut high and fall fast, real hits hang about – and there seem to be plenty of the latter type around at the moment, with all of last week's top nine retaining the same positions relative to each other this week. The records ranked one to six remain in sequence while sliding to positions four to nine, and last week's seven, eight and nine are now ranked 12, 13 and 14, as they make way for new entries.

Last year, several records charted on import prior to UK release, and they all ended up achieving top two placings. The signs are good, then, for Black Legend, whose Barry White remake You See The Trouble With Me – out here in two weeks – improves 60-52 on Italy's Rise label. It also debuts at number 84 on the German Bit label, the latter import arriving towards the weekend and retailing typically at £1 cheaper than the Italian disc. Their combined sales would earn them 43rd place on the chart – though the Bit release shouldn't really be listed at all, as it contains two tracks and exceeds 20 minutes playing time, breaking CIN chart regulations.

THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS ALBUMS

by ALAN JONES

The Greatest Hits by Whitney Houston is number one for the second straight week, suffering a fairly minor (11%) dip in sales to just under 80,000, while beating off the challenge of Eminem's The Marshall Mathers LP (63,000 sales) fairly comfortably. Britney Spears' Oops! I Did It Again slips 2-3, but its sales (nearly 48,000), are easily the highest for a number three album this year. These three albums give us our first all-American top three for more than two years, with the leading British contenders being Tom Jones' Reload (down 3-4 but selling more copies – 37,000 – than when it was number one a fortnight ago) and Toploader's debut album Onka's Big Moka, which sold nearly 33,000 copies to take fifth spot in the wake of their hit singles Dancing In The Moonlight and Achilles Heel.

More heavy discounting brings several old favourites – mostly Warner Music releases – back to the chart. Simply Red's Greatest Hits leads the way at number 26, closely followed by Madonna's Ray Of Light and The Immaculate Collection (numbers 39 and 41) and The Corrs' Unplugged at number 44.

Country star Faith Hill has been a regular on the American album chart since 1994 and finally makes her UK debut this week with Breathe, in at number 21 a fortnight after the single of the same name peaked at number 33. Paradoxically, her much bigger hit single This Kiss (number 13 in 1998) failed to generate any chart action for its parent album Faith. Meanwhile, 11 years after his last all-new album The End Of The Innocence reached number 17, Don Henley's fans demonstrate their loyalty by charting his new LP Inside Job at number 25.

Eva Cassidy makes the Top 75 for the first time with Time After Time, some four years after her death from cancer at the age of 33. Time After Time is released on the Hollywood-based Blix Street label, and is distributed by Brighton-based Hot Records. Though virtually unknown when she died, Cassidy has since become something of a cult, with Radio 2 being among her biggest supporters. As a result, her four previous posthumous albums have sold exceptionally well, with the biggest – Songbird – selling nearly 80,000 copies, while never quite making the Top 75.

COMPILATIONS

The upward spiral of the Now That's What I Call Music! series of albums seemed to be at an end, with Now! 45 recording consistently lower sales on its first five weeks in the shops than last year's corresponding title, Now! 42. But the tide may have turned. On its sixth week in the chart, Now! 45 – which includes 45 current and recent hits by the likes of Fragma, Watergate and Moloko – retains pole position on the chart while selling more than 37,000 copies. That is 4,000 up on the total Now! 42 sold on its sixth week in the chart, and bring total sales of Now! 45 to more than 531,000, even if the album has still sold 35,000 fewer copies than Now! 42 at the same stage of its career.

A more immediate concern for Now! 45 is that the gap between it and the chasing group is closing significantly, suggesting its chart-topping run may soon end. Three new entries debut on the Top Five of the compilation chart this week, spurring the sector to 17% growth week-on-week. Leading the chase at number two with nearly 29,000 sales – just 8,000 fewer than Now! 45 – is the new Virgin/EMI compilation The Best Club Anthems...Ever! 2K, while Kiss Smooth Grooves claims third place for Universal with 18,000 sales and Global TV's latest, Cruisin' – The Best Of Drivetime squeezes into fifth place with nearly 12,000 sales.

Finally, the soundtrack to Mission: Impossible 2 landed at number two on America's album chart a couple of weeks ago. It has a more muted impact here, debuting at number 45 on the compilation chart with just over 1,000 sales.
