THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS SINGLES

14 APRIL 2001

CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

What Took You So Long by Emma Bunton is the 15th number one hit by the Spice Girls or one of their members, and though its first-week sale of 76,000 was lower than that of any of the preceding 14, it was still 20,000 copies more than Shaggy's It Wasn't Me managed.

The Shaggy single sold 56,000 copies to retain runners-up slot and has now sold a grand total of 941,000 units. Hear'Say's Pure And Simple has also topped the 900,000 mark, with nearly 43,000 sales last week bringing its cumulative sales to 916,000. The PopStars winners are joined in the chart this week by Bardot, the group who emerged from the original PopStars competition in Australia – but the Aussie girls make a muted chart impact with their single Poison, which debuts at number 45, having sold fewer than 3,500 copies.

Elvis Presley and The Beatles are tied at the top of the list of acts with most number ones, having each topped the chart 17 times – but Presley's total would be 18 if Suspicious Minds, which peaked at number two, had been able to dethrone Rolf Harris'

Two Little Boys at the beginning of 1970. The track, which is invariably among the Top 10 Presley recordings whenever fan surveys

Am, joins former colleague Geri Halliwell and the two Melanies (B and C) in having a chart-topping hit away from the group, debuting in pole position this week with What Took You So Long. The single sold just over 76,000 copies last week, and is her tenth number one – the previous nine, of course, were as a member of the Spice Girls. Bunton, who previously reached number two as guest vocalist on the Tin Tin Out single What I are taken, was even hyped as a potential number one ahead of its reissue last week, but was never in with a chance, not least because it was released in a limited edition of just 30,000 copies. In the event, just under half of those found buyers last week, allowing Suspicious Minds to debut at number 15 – two notches below the peak position of the last Presley reissue, Always On My Mind from 1997.

13-year-old Snoop Dogg protégé and rapper Lil Bow Wow makes an impressive chart debut this week at number six with Bow Wow (That's My Name), a track which samples Andy Gibb's number 42 hit Shadow Dancing, from 1978. Gibb wrote the song with his brothers Robin, Maurice and Barry, aka The Bee Gees, whose own latest hit This Is Where I Came In dips from 18 to 26, a creditable performance given the fact it was in competition with their new album of the same name last week.

THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS ALBUMS

CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

ALBUMS FACTFILE

A week after they returned to the singles chart with This Is Where I Came In, the Bee Gees' album of the same name debuts at number six with sales of more than 28,500 copies. It increases their tally of Top 10 albums to an even dozen and offers further proof of their outstanding longevity – their debut appeared 34 years ago. That said, its initial sales are perhaps disappointing compared with their form in recent years.

The Bee Gees' last new studio album, Still Waters, sold 59,000 copies when it debuted at number two in 1997 and since then their Live – One Night Only concert recording has sold just short of 1m copies. Given the fact that the fraternal trio were the subject of a TOTP2 special on Wednesday, This Is Where I Came In could perhaps have been expected to perform even better – though it still managed to be the week's highest debut.

Sales of Hear/Say's Popstars more than halved last week but interest was still sufficient for it to retain the number one spot with ease. It eventually sold a further 127,000 copies, three times as many as runner-up Eva Cassidy's Songbird. In an uninspiring week with few new entries and no big movers, the top five all retain their places, although all suffered from declining sales. The Hear/Say album was off 59%, while Songbird posted a 35% fall week-on-week. The Gorillaz' self-titled album shed 28% but held its third place, while Dido's No Angel dipped 17% at number four. Completing the top five, The Ultimate Collection by Billy Joel was down just 1%. Hear/Say's album has now sold nearly 435,000 copies and, just 13 days after release, is already in third place for the year to date, just behind Songbird (435,000 this year and 537,000 in total) and still well adrift of No Angel (728,000 in 2001 and 834,000 cumulatively).

PERCENTAGE OF UK ACTS IN THE CHART

Bruce Springsteen is consistently voted one of rock's premier live performers, and the latest evidence to support that contention comes in the form of Live In New York City, a concert recording of a Home Box Office (HBO) gig, which finds Springsteen and his cohorts the E Street Band in rare form as they run through favourites old and new. The album sold just short of 15,000 copies last week, enough for it to debut at number 12. That is well shy of the number four peaks of both of his earlier live efforts, Live 1975-1985 (a 1986 release) and In Concert – MTV Plugged (1993). Live In New York City is expected to fare much better in America, with early retail reports suggesting it could debut at number one there next week.

Damage suffered a two-year hiatus in their recording career when their original record label (Big Life) went into liquidation. The UK R&B band have since returned via a deal with Cooltempo, and have taken up where they left off. Their Big Life album Forever reached number 11 in 1997 and their current follow-up, Since You've Been Gone – already home to three hit singles – debuts this week at number 16 with slightly higher first week sales than its predecessor.

COMPILATIONS

Having taken the top two positions in the compilations chart last week for the first time in its eight-year existence, the Ministry Of Sound label repeats the feat, though sales of its number one The Annual – Spring 2001 hit just 24,000 – the lowest of the year so far. Sales of the set tumbled 23% last week, while the market as a whole drifted down by 5%. It was nearly overtaken by the Ministry's other current favourite, The Chillout Session, which trailed by just 660 sales, and which has spent its entire nine-week chart life in the top three.

The Chillout Session is the runaway number one compilation of the year to date, with sales of 345,000. The very distant runner-up is Breakdown – The Very Best Of Euphoric Dance, which has sold fewer than 130,000 copies. The Chillout Session's days at the top of the year-to-date rankings are numbered however, since today sees the release of the year's first blockbuster, Now That's What I Call Music! 48.

There are three new entries to the top five of the compilation chart this week, tucked in immediately behind the Ministry Of Sound duo. Leading the way is True Euphoria, the latest BMG/Telstar collaboration, which is effectively a follow-up to Breakdown – The Very Best Of Euphoric Dance. True Euphoria sold 21,500 copies achieving highest debut honours ahead of the latest DJ Luck & MC Neat mix for Universal, which won fourth place with nearly 20,000 sales, just under a fifth of the total registered to date by their last mix album for the label. Completing the top five, Cream Live is the latest dance selection from the Liverpool club.
