THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS SINGLES

CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Two years after going on hiatus to devote herself to "family and golf", and 14 months after giving birth to Rene-Charles, Celine Dion is back...and it is like she has never been gone. The small-framed but large-junged Canadian checks back in with a number seven debut for A New Day Has Come, whose success comes despite scant support from radio, where it currently ranks as only the 43rd most-heard track (up from 49th position a week ago). Dion's 23rd hit since Beauty And The Beast kickstarted her chart career a decade ago, it is the title track from her new album, which is released next Monday (25 March) and is her highest charting solo hit since My Heart Will Go On was number one exactly four years ago. Dion will be 35 on March 30 and will be aiming to celebrate by landing her fifth number one album when the chart is announced the following day.

A third straight week at number one for Will Young's Anything Is Possible/Evergreen is accompanied by a much larger than usual decline of 74% week-on-week. Even so, the single managed to sell a further 99,000 units and enjoys a comfortable 20% lead over Ali G & Shaggy's Me Julie, which debuts at number two with sales of 83,000. Young's single has sold more than 1,584,000 units – exactly a million more than the year's second biggest hit, Hero by Enrique Iglesias – and climbs to 16th place in the all-time chart. It still is not the biggest hit ever for Young's record company BMG or his A&R man Simon Cowell, however – "I honour falls to Unchained Melody/(There'll Bebirds Over) The White Cliffs Of Dover, Kuoson & Jerome's introductory 1995 smash, which sold 1,843,000 units. At the current rate of progress, Young may not reach that figure, although Pop Idols rival Gareth Gates' own Unchained Melody cover may.

Veteran rockers Iron Maiden scorch to a number nine debut with Run To The Hills, showing latterday rock heroes Lostprophets (in at number 20 with The Fake Sound Of Progress) and System Of A Down (number 23 with Toxicity) how it should be done. Run To The Hills has been a hit twice before, the original studio version of the song reaching number nine in 1982, and a live (Long Beach) version climbing to number 26 three years later. The current incarnation of the song is issued on two CDs, one featuring the original, the other spotlighting a new live version of the track, which was recorded in Rio last year.

Eight months after Jennifer Lopez had a hit with Ain't It Funny, the record returns to the chart this time in a radical remix featuring Ja Rule. Although the original charted higher (number three, one notch higher than the current incarnation) the remix sold 47,000 units last week – beating the original's debut tally by 10,000.

Natalie Imbruglia's Wrong Impression debuts at number 10, beating by a notch the peak scaled by her last single, That Day. They are the first two hits from her second album White Lilies Island, which makes a massive leap this week, improving 102-25 on the album chart. The album, which originally peaked at number 15 last November, has sold 77,000 units to date.

CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

It is a poor week for sales across the board, with singles taking a 30% dive, compilation albums down 25% and artist albums plunging 24%, week-on-week. In the latter category, few albums registering gains, together with the soft market allows Nickelback to jump 4-1 with Silver Side Up, despite a 3% slip in sales week-on-week. The Canadian rockers, whose debut hit single How You Remind Me has spent the past three weeks in the top five, released Silver Side Up last September. It finally reached the Top 75 in January and tops the chart on its 10th appearance, having improved 10-7-6-4-1 in the past few weeks. Silver Side Up is the first rock album to reach number one since Slipknot's 10th Anniversary in 1997. How You Remind Me spent a week on top last September. Both Slipknot and Nickelback are signed to Amsterdam-based independent label Roadrunner, which was founded in 1981. They are the first acts on the label to top the chart. Two weeks after registering her first Top 10 single with Shoulda Woulda Coulda, UK R&B veteran Beverley Knight lands a Top 10 album too. Knight's Who I Am set sold more than 20,000 units last week and debuts at number seven. That is an impressive advance on the number 42 peak of her last album, 1998's Prodigal Sista which itself performed markedly

ALBUMS FACTFILE

Her breasts may be "small and humble so you don't mistake them for mountains" in the strange terminology of her hit single, but Shakira's chart achievements are large and very impressive. The 25-year-old Colombian's first English-language set Laundry Service debuts at number three on the album chart this week, only a fortnight after her first single Whenever Wherever made a number two debut on the singles chart. Whenever Wherever has sold more than 250,000 units in the past three weeks but it is very unusual for a new artist, and an exotic one at that, to chart an otherwise untried album so high and so soon. Laundry Service sold more than 34,000 units last week and, if it had sold just 4,000 more units, it would have debuted at number one. Laundry Service also reached number three in the US, where it has sold more than 2m units.

better than 1996's The B-Funk, which climbed no higher than number 145. Knight joins a Top 10 top heavy with female solo stars.

Mick Jagger has never had a Top 30 solo single and airplay support for his latest attempt, Visions Of Paradise, has been minimal, so it is no real surprise to find it debuts this week at number 43. It has, however, got the hacks sharpening their knives again, with many condemning his Goddess In The Doorway album as a disaster. The facts do not quite tally, though, as Goddess has sold more than 70,000 units in 17 weeks on release, despite a number 44 peak. That is only 8,000 fewer than the last Rolling Stones album, Bridges To Babylon, sold in the same timeframe in 1997 – and Bridges got off to a flying start, debuting at number six. Goddess In The Doorway may yet beat the eventual 115,000 sales of Bridges To Babylon, especially if the very obvious but somehow overlooked God Gave Me Everything is granted a single release here.

COMPILATIONS

Having built up Valentine's Day and Mother's Day as opportunities to sell themed compilations, record companies fully expect album's appropriate to them to suffer major declines immediately afterwards – and this week proves no exception. With Mother's Day retreating into the distance, New Woman 2002 and The Very Best Of All Woman plunge 1-5 and 2-8 respectively, suffering savage week-on-week shrinkage of 69% and 71%.

In a severely depressed marketplace, the only album in the Top 50 to post a week-on-week increase in sales (aside from five new releases) is Universal Music Television's WSM's Supercharged. Despite being the only single album in the Top 20 (and offering far less music per pound than any of its competitors) it defies a 26% decline in the market to register a 7% increase week-on-week to 33,000 sales, enough for it to jump 4-1. Crammed with modern rock/nu-metal icons such as Nickelback, Slipknot, Sum 41, Marilyn Manson, Papa Roach and Staind, it easily overcomes the challenge of the latest Ministry Of Sound set Trance Nation, which debuts at number two after selling 25,000 units.

The only other Top 10 debut comes from Girls Say..., a solo effort from Universal Music Television. Debuting at number seven with more than 11,000 takers, it assembles 40 tracks from acts who are either all female or predominantly so and underlines its trendiness by having a picture of a bright young thing on her mobile and the text message legend "40 GR8 TRAX 4 GIRLS" plastered under its title. Good marketing – and it would be interesting to know exactly what percentage of its buyers were male.
