CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Former London signing Sugababes topped the singles chart last week but are now usurped by new London artist Holly Valance, whose debut single Kiss Kiss sold upwards of 143,000 units to claim pole position. It is the label's first number one since All Saints' Black Coffee in October 2000 and won the race for chart honours by a massive margin over S Club Juniors, whose One Step Closer remains at number two with sales of 55,500.

All of the three highest new entries to the chart this week are by artists making their debuts. In addition to Holly Valance's number one, Missy Elliott's protégée Tweet checks in number five with her R&B smash Oops! (Oh My), while Swiss dance duo Shakedown's soulful house hit At Night debuts at number six. The final new entry to the Top 10 is No More Drama, the sixth Top 10 hit to date for Mary J Blige.

Despite the shake-up, How You Remind Me by Nickelback and Whenever Wherever by

Shakira retain their places in the Top 10 for the 10th straight week. Both singles have sold more than 20,000 units a week throughout their chart runs, with Shakira's single ranking fourth for the year to date with 494,000 sales and Nickelback's ranking fifth with 338,000.

SINGLE FACTFILE

Neighbours star Holly Valance is 19 on Saturday (May 11), and receives an early birthday present in the form of a UK number one, with her debut single Kiss Kiss. A number one hit in Germany in 1999 for Turkish-born Turkan under its original title Simarik, the song has attracted several cover versions and was first recorded as Kiss Kiss with its current lyrics by US singer Stella Soleil, whose recording attracted a fair amount of attention Stateside last year but failed to reach Billboard's Hot 100, peaking at number 24 in the "bubbling under" list. Valance is the third actor from Neighbours to have a UK number one, emulating Kylie Minogue and Jason Donovan. Natalie Imbruglia reached number two with her first two singles. Other members of the Neighbours cast to have had hits are Craig McLachlan, Stefan Dennis and sisterly duo Gayle & Gillian.

I cannot recall the last time a single reached the Top 40 on seven-inch sales alone – but it happens this week as the 25th anniversary reissue of The Jam's In The City reaches number 36 with every one of its 4,357 sales on the once dominant format. It prompts the seven-inch sector to register an 81% gain this week – but even so, only 10,042 seven-inch singles were sold last week, representing 1.2% of the overall singles market. Despite being issued in an almost moribund format, and being unavailable in Sanity, MVC, WH Smith, Woolworths, Asda, Tesco, Sainsbury's and Safeway, In The City ironically charts higher than the original release, which reached number 40 in 1977.

Another anniversary celebration fuels the number 1 / debut of The Best Day Of Our Lives by the Lisbon Lions featuring Martin O'Neill. Released to mark the 35th anniversary of Celtic Football Club's European Cup triumph in Lisbon, it sold 10,845 units last week – of which some 10,034 were in Scotland.

THE OFFICIAL UK CHARTS ALBUMS

CHART COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

The Hollies were the first band from Manchester to have a number one album, way back in 1968. Since then, the city has generated a disproportionate number of chart-topping bands, among them The Smiths, New Order, Simply Red, Elack Grape, Take That, Ocean Colour Scene and, most famously, Oasis. The latter act are due back any time now, but the mantle passes in the meantime to Doves, whose Heavenly release The Last Broadcast sold more than 52,000 units last week and single-handedly drove the albums market to improve for the first time in four weeks, albeit by just some 4%.

At the age of 56, Bryan Ferry debuts at number six with Frantic, to achieve his highest chart position since 1993's Taxi reached number two. Ferry's last album – the covers set As Time Goes By – got a fairly chilly reception from record buyers, debuting at number 16 with fewer than 11,000 first-week sales although it subsequently perked up somewhat to sell 140,000, easily beating the

ALBUMS FACTFILE

Appearances can be deceptive. Anyone who noted the record 3-34 tumble made by Doves' single There Goes The Fear last week, and its further decline to number 70 this week, would imagine they were a cult, fanbase act with no album potential. They would be wrong. The main reason for the rapid fade of There Goes The Fear was the fact it was a limited edition, which was deleted on release date. If the idea was to drive sales of their album The Last Broadcast, it seems to have worked – the album debuts at number one this week, with sales of more than 52,000 helping a market where the previous week's number one sold a five-year low tally of less than 24,000. The Doves only previous album, Lost Souls, was released two years ago, peaked at number 16 and sold 128,000 units.

disaster that was 1994's Mamouna, which debuted higher – number 11 – but sold just 7,300 units on its first week and is still only halfway to silver status, with just over 30,000 sales to date. Frantic opens with nearly as many first-week sales as these two together –

17,800 – a fine achievement, especially as no single has been released.

The music from Star Wars has been providing John Williams with a pension fund for nearly 25 years, and his last soundtrack for the series – Star Wars Episode 1: The Phantom Menace – earned him the highest chart placing of his career in 1999, when it climbed to number eight. He returns to the chart this week with Star Wars Episode II: Attack Of The Clones, which debuts at number 15 and will benefit greatly once the film is released theatrically on May 16.

Nine months after release, 'N Sync's Celebrity album has been something of a disappointment at retail, with just 52,000 sales to date. The album, which peaked at number 12 last August, gets a shot in the arm this week however, with the release of a two-CD version featuring extra mixes, including the Nelly collaboration Girlfriend. More than 8,000 fans bought the album last week, earning it a re-entry to the chart at number 26.

COMPILATIONS

The previously flagging Pop Idol – The Big Band Album got a welcome shot in the arm last week, thanks to the screening of the live Pop Idol concert on ITV (April 27). Before that, it declined 54.8% between week one and week two, and a further 42.3% between weeks two and three. The programme helped it to increase sales week-on-week by a modest 5.9% to a little over 40,500. That was enough to prevent Now That's What I Call Music! 51 from regaining the number one slot, as it had threatened to do, but sales to date of 292,000 put it a very distant second to the same Now! album – which has sold 502,000 units – in the year-to-date rankings, and it appears to have no chance of making up the deficit.

Oasis, Stereophonics and Badly Drawn Boy among the 36 acts contributing tracks to ... Album 3, which earns highest debut honours on the chart this week, entering at number three with sales of more than 18,000. It therefore equals the peak of The Album, the highly successful series opener which spent six weeks at number three last spring and went on to sell nearly 300,000 units. More importantly, it represents a major recovery from the disappointment of The Album 2, which rose no higher than number 20 last November – although, being released at that time of the year, it managed to sell 105,000 copies in total, of which 14,000 were first-week sales.

Now! 51 and Hits 52 were released head-to-head six weeks ago. Now! 51, as mentioned above, has sold more than 502,000 units. Hits 52 has sold a meagre 153,000, suggesting that the public cannot be fooled by something as simple as a number. Back to the drawing board?
