MUSIC WEEK 12 OCTOBER 2002

SINGLES COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

"I know what I'm getting for my birthday, I just don't know how big it is" – that is one of many excellent quotes provided last week by Great British eccentric John Otway in a perfectly managed media blitz which focused on his 50th birthday, and more pertinently, his fans' present to him of his second ever Top 40 hit. Otway was a mere 25 when he and fellow weirdo Wild Willy Barrett reached number 27 with Really Free in 1977. A solo Otway subsequently developed a large cult following for his bizarre stage show, which includes skateboarding and the performance of a track called Headbutts, in which Otway usually draws his own blood by charging the microphone. From a shortlist of 12 songs, Otway's fans selected Bunsen Burner – based on Disco Inferno – as his birthday hit, and the record duly debuts this week at number nine after selling more than 17,500.

No change at the top of the chart, with Will Young and Gareth Gates' rendition of The Long And Winding Road untroubled by new runner-up Holly Valance despite declining 50% week-on-week. The repeat performance means that Young, Gates and fellow Pop Idol graduate Darius have spent 16 weeks at number one thus far this year, making Pop Idol the phenomenon of the year. If Valance's Down Boy had so d half as many copies on its first week in the shops as her debut hit, it would have been number one – but it falls well short of that mark, with sales of fewer than 39,000 compared to Kiss Kiss' opening tally of more than 143,000.

Unknown at the beginning of the year, Janti has now had four Top 10 hits – the last three of which have reached the same position. She first came to notice in February, reaching number six, accompanying Ja Rule's rapping on the number six hit Always On Time. Then she sang on Fat Joe's hit What's Luv, which hit number four in May. Her first solo

ALBUMS COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

The Rolling Stones' last chart appearance was four years ago, when the Bridges To Babylon tour concert album No Security surfaced briefly, at number 67, with first week sales of less than 3,500. That album has since increased its sales to 24,000 but the group returns in more style this week, with their career spanning 'best of', Forty Licks storming the chart at number two. It was denied the opportunity of becoming the group's 11th number one album (a total beaten solely by the Beatles' tally of 11) by Elvis Presley's Elvis - 30 Number One Hits. The Stones last topped the chart in 1994, with Voodoo Lounge, and are unlucky not to reach the summit again on three counts. Firstly up against a much-hyped and comprehensive Presley package, secondly losing by a margin of just 943 sales, and thirdly failing to take pole position despite selling nearly 99,000 albums – the highest tally of the year for a number two.

Just 160 short of a six figure sale on its second week in the shops, Elvis - 30 Number One Hits narrowly defeated the Rolling Stones' Forty Licks to retain pole position despite declining 26% week-on-week. Taking a look at the geographical spread of sales, the Presley album was ahead only in Ireland, Scotland and Yorkshire, with the Stones winning the battle in London, the South East, the South West, West and Wales, the Midlands, the North East and Lancashire. Presley was much the stronger in Northern Ireland, where his album outsold Forty Licks by nearly 74%.

Autumn sales, particularly HMV's, continue to have a major effect on the chart. One of the albums most affected is Come Away With Me by Norah Jones. The album has been on the chart continuously since May but makes a big 13-3 leap this week to equal the peak position it first reached seven weeks ago. It sold a best-yet tally of nearly 41,000 last week, many of them for less than £10. The album sold its 400,000th copy on Sunday – not bad for a new jazz artist whose two singles (Don't Know Why and the title track) peaked at 59 and 72 respectively.

Mark Knopfler's single Why Aye Man fell short of the Top 75 last month, reaching number 81 but it seems to have done him little harm, as his new album The Ragpickers Dream debuts at number seven with first week sales of more than 25,000. It is Knopfler's third solo Top 10 album, and comes almost a year after his low key Shot At Glory soundtrack failed to chart.

Supergrass' first three albums reached one, two and three respectively. But the sequence seems to be over, with their new album Life On Other Planets arriving at nine, on sales of 24,500. It is three years since their last album, a self-titled effort, opened with just short of 50,000 sales.

Busted launched their singles chart career a mere fortnight ago, and landed a number three debut with What I Go To School For. Their boisterous self-titled debut album, which has drawn comparisons with the likes of Blink 182, is still pretty much an unknown quantity but manages to make its debut at number 30 this week, with more than 8,500 punters prepared to take a risk at this early stage.

COMPILATIONS

Not even the arrival of the latest in the popular New Woman series or Twice As Nice's MOTO celebrating R&B mix album can persuade Smash Hits: Let's Party to vacate its position atop the compilation chart. The album – a ready mix of more than 40 of the year's most popular singles – spends its fifth week at number one, having sold a further 23,500 copies last week. That total – a 37% decline on the previous week's tally – brings sales of the album to nearly 217,000 and consolidate its fifth placing in the year-to-date rankings.

Sales of nearly 21,000 win New Woman: The Autumn Collection second place in the chart. The album is the seventh in the series – whose title suggests its target audience rather than the artists it contain, unless there is something I have missed about the anatomies of Ronan Keating, Nickelback, Coldplay and the other male stars who are featured – and follows the success of this year's previous edition New Woman 2002, which opened at number one in March with first week sales of more than 43,000 – though, remember, it was boosted by the Mother's Day market.

Twice As Nice Presents Mobo 2002 also sold more than 20,000 copies last week to take third place. It is the highest charting of seven mix albums by Twice As Nice to make the Top 20 of the compilation chart, and equals the previous best placing for an album related to the Mobo awards, namely the Mobo 2000 album. Last year's Mobo album fared more modestly, reaching number 13 and has sold only slightly more copies – 22,800 to date – in a year than the latest album has sold in a week. Artists on Mobo 2002 include Missy Elliott, Angie Stone and Alicia Keys.
