SINGLES COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

With their second album Ether Song released today (Monday), Turin Brakes have chosen a great time to land their biggest hit single with Pain Killer. Helped by the fact it has received considerably more airplay than all their previous singles added together, the fact it contains an exclusive track and, not least, the fact it retails for just 99p, Pain Killer sold nearly 15,000 copies last week to land the chart's highest debut at number five – a considerable improvement on Long Distance, the first single from Ether Song, which reached number 22 last October. But do not think the London duo's appeal is due only to low pricing – their debut album The Optimist, released nearly two years ago, was a critical success and has quietly amassed impressive sales of 196,000 to date without climbing higher than number 27 in the chart. Expect a much higher debut for Ether Song this weekend.

It has been a strange week for the singles chart, with a paucity of hot new releases, school half term and clearance sales all combining to produce a Top 75 which makes rather less sense than usual. T.A.T.U. are to be congratulated for securing their fourth week at number one – something seven other records have equalled but none has surpassed since Cher's Believe topped the chart for seven weeks in 1998 – with an increased share of the singles market. Their sales of nearly 41,000 were down 11% on a week ago, while the overall sector slipped by 12%.

But not much else makes sense, with Good Charlotte's Lifestyles Of The Rich And Famous (ring 20-8, having debuted at number 13 a night ago); Daniel Bedingfield's If You're Not The One slumping 7-14 after a 12-week stay in the Top 10; and Mark Joseph's self-financed debut single entering the Top 40 despite very limited availability and even less exposure.

Joseph, a 22-year-old singer-songwriter, sold more than 3,000 copies of Get Through even though it was available only through Virgin stores in Manchester, Brierley Hill, Milton Keynes, Luton, Bristol and London's Brent

Cross. It was released on his self-distributed Mark Joseph label. It is a bold and unusual move – although not quite unique. With support from The Box for her video, Ana Ann reached number 24 with Ride, on her own LL Records last spring, though with distribution help from BMG; and Sophie Agapios is shooting for a Top 40 place this weekend with her debut single U Girl, which she has released on Squeaky, a label she set up with her three sisters after getting rejected by 75 record companies. Distribution is by AMD/Universal.

Other consequences of a marketplace in which little more than 500,000 singles were sold are that Eminem's Lose Yourself bounces 9-6 on its 12th week in the Top 10 despite losing 3% of its sales, while Justin Timberlake's Cry Me A River moves 3-2 despite a 19% decline in its sales to less than 24,000. Sinead Quinn's I Can't Break Down, which trades places with Timberlake's single, is number three with sales of less than 17,000 – the first time in the 21st Century that the number three single has sold fewer than 20,000 copies.

ALBUMS COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Apparently on course to become the first black rapper to have a number one solo album in the UK, 50 Cent fell at the last hurdle with his debut offering Get Rich Or Die Tryin' falling foul of the Brit effect on Justin Timberlake, whose Justified album eventually finished up at number one. But 50 Cent's album managed to sell a highly creditable 48,000 to debut at number two, even though he has yet to release a single.

ALBUMS FACTFILE

The buzz on 50 Cent – whose album has sold 1.7m copies in the US in two weeks – has snowballed since his upcoming single In Da Club was promoted. Radio support for In Da Club is building nicely (its up 43-36 on the airplay chart this week) with 27 spins from Radio One alone last week, but the track has fared even better in clubs and is number one on Music Week's Urban Chart for the second week in a row.

A week after the Valentine's Day effect gave the albums chart a welcome 16% boost, the Brit Awards helped cushion the return to normality with sales declining by 12%. That is better than last year, when the two events were likewise on consecutive weeks and sales declined by 15%. Award winners and performers Ms Dynamite and Coldplay enjoyed the biggest Brit effect, with Dynamite's A Little Deeper album improving 36-17 on an 86% increase in sales week-on-week, while Coldplay's A Rush Of Blood To The Head improved 15-6 with a 72% jump in sales.

It is harder to assess the Brit effect on Tom Jones, who won the Outstanding Contribution award and performed the night's longest set. His new compilation, Greatest Hits, improved from a mediocre mid-week debut at number 18 to a final placing of number three, although it would in any case have benefited from the TV campaign which was launched in the latter half of the week.

Although Justin Timberlake impressed on the

COMPILATIONS

A week after the Valentine's Day effect produced a 39% increase in sales, with the top seven albums all registering sales of more than 25,000, the compilations market went into freefall last week, with no albums making the 25,000 mark and sales off 42% overall. Love songs compilations fared worst, with the top four all suffering spectacular declines. Love – Eternal Lovesongs (down 1-9 with sales down by 86%), I Love U (2-13, 89%), Reggae Love Songs (3-6, 70%) and The Power Of Love (4-18, 86%) are the main components in the worst post-Valentine's Day slump to date.

In their stead, Club Mix 2003 takes over at the top, although its sales tally of 22,200 is only a third of that with which Love – Eternal Lovesongs topped the chart last week. Club Mix 2003 is the fourth album in the series to reach number one, following Club Mix 97

Volume 2, Club Mix 2001 and Club Mix 2002. The latter album, which ruled the roost 54 weeks ago, debuted at number two with sales of 28,000 and sold 25,000 the following week, when it went top. Originally a Universal Music Television solo project, Club Mix is now a co-production with Blackburn-based independent All Around The World, which thus has a mixed week. Although it contributed nine tracks to Club Mix 2003, All Around The World suffers the indignity of seeing its two latest singles – Someday by Resonance Q and Hard To Say I'm Sorry by Aquagen – debut at numbers 29 and 33 on the singles chart, respectively. The failure of Resonance Q and Aquagen brings to an end a run of 11 consecutive Top 25 singles for AATW. Both Someday and Hard To Say I'm Sorry are on Club Mix 2003, as is the current number one single, All The Things She Said by T.A.T.U.
