SINGLES COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

A week after Pop Stars: The Rivals curiosities the Cheeky Girls' second single Take Your Shoes Off debuted at number three, Girls Aloud – who were formed from the five outstanding female voices in the competition – follow-up their chart-topping debut Sound Of The Underground by entering at number two with No Good Advice. Sound Of The Underground sold more than 213,000 copies the week it was released last December to debut at number one, a position it held for four weeks. No Good Advice sold a more modest 43,000 copies last week, and was never near to dethroning R Kelly's Ignition. Both Girls Aloud singles are on their debut album, also called Sound Of The Underground, which is released on May 26. The following week One True Voice – the male counterparts of Girls Aloud – release their second single, Shakespeare's Way With Words.

SINGLES FACTFILE

R Kelly's Ignition remains atop the singles chart for a second week and increased its sales week-on-week by 3% to more than 72,000 last week to become the first record to register an increase in sales while at number one since Enrique Iglesias' Hero enjoyed a 20% improvement on its fourth week at number one in February 2002, a circumstance brought about by a combination of school holidays and Valentine's Day, which helped boost overall singles sales by a freakish 34% that week.

Currently number one in America's Hot 100 singles chart for a second week, naican hip-hop/dancehall sensation Sean Paul debuts at number four here with Get Busy to register his second Top 10 hit. Paul's introductory hit, Gimme The Light, originally reached number 32, but climbed to number five when reissued in February and had first week sales of 18,000, while Get Busy sold nearly 24,000 last week.

TOP CORPORATE GROUPS

SALES UPDATE

Two heavily localised hits enter the chart this week. The most localised hit is Southampton Boys by Red 'N' White

PERCENTAGE OF UK ACTS IN THE CHART

Machines. Debuting at number 17, it is one of seven songs about Southampton FC written and entered in an unofficial FA Cup Final Anthem competition organised by Southampton's Daily Echo newspaper. It only finished fourth in that competition, but is clearly hugely popular with Saints fans, with 99.4% of its sales coming from Southampton and immediately surrounding areas. Southampton, of course, lost the Cup Final to Arsenal 1-0 last Saturday.

Meanwhile, Home by Bone Thugs-N-Harmony debuts at number 19, exactly matching the peak position of Phil Collins' 1985 hit Take Me Home, which it samples. Collins was previously celebrated by R&B/hip-hop acts on the album Urban Renewal two years ago, which spawned the Top 10 hit Another Day In Paradise by the sibling duo of Brandy and Ray J. Nine years after their debut hit Dolphin, Shed Seven register their 15th straight Top 40 hit with Why Can't I Be You debuting at number 23.

Finally, former Steps singer Lisa Scott-Lee's first solo single Lately debuts at number six.

ALBUMS COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Although it could not maintain its early impetus, which carried it to the top of the midweek chart flashes, Marilyn Manson's latest album, The Golden Age Of The Grotesque had easily the most successful opening week of any of the rocker's albums to date. It eventually sold more than 31,000 copies last week to debut at number four, beating both his previous highest chart placing – the number eight posting of his last album

Mechanical Animals on its debut week in 2000 – and his highest first-week sale, eclipsing the 21,000 start made by Holy Wood when it debuted at number 23 in 1998. Holy Wood went on to sell nearly 115,000 copies while Mechanical Animals overcame its slower start to sell more copies than its predecessor, with a cumulative total of 129,000 thus far. The Golden Age Of The Grotesque should beat them both.

With last week's number one, Think Tank by Blur, dipping dramatically and their apparent Marilyn Manson's The Golden Age Of The Grotesque proving unable to sustain the chart-topping position it held in midweek sales flashes, Justin Timberlake's Justified returns to the top of the chart. Buoyed by his sell-out UK tour and burgeoning club, radio and TV support for his upcoming single Rock Your Body, Timberlake's album suffered only a 1% dip in sales week-on-week, selling just short of 43,000 copies, and now commences its fourth run at number one. The last album to do that was Gold – Greatest Hits Abba, which originally topped the chart in 1992 and returned to pole position on a further three occasions in 1999.

With Timberlake atop the albums chart and R Kelly's Ignition continuing at the singles chart summit, the Jive label has simultaneous number ones for the first time in its 22-year history. Kelly's single success is also helping him to new heights on the albums chart where his Chocolate Factory album improves seven notches to reach the Top 10, with sales increasing a further 23% week-on-week.

COMPILATIONS

Although Now! That's What I Call Music 54 continues to underachieve compared to recent spring instalments in the long-running series, it remains the best-selling album in the compilations market for the fifth week in a row. It sold 26,000 copies last week, bringing its total sales to 389,000. That is significantly behind the pace of last year's equivalent (Now! 51), which had sold 471,000 at the same stage of its life, and the record-breaking Now! 48 which had sold a staggering 666,000 copies in the same timeframe in 2001. Despite this, both Now! 51 and Now! 48 each spent just three weeks at number one, which suggests that Now! 54's sluggish sales are symptomatic of a more widespread decline in the compilations market as well as reflecting its own special problem of being based on the most successful singles at a time when the singles market is itself in a downward spiral. The last Now! album to have sold fewer copies at this stage of its life was 1996's Now! 33, with just 262,500 in its first five weeks in the shops.

Now! 54's nearest rival, for the third straight week, is Ministry Of Sound's Back To The Old Skool: Club Classics, which turned in its lowest weekly sale – 20,500 – last week, but which has sold a highly respectable 140,000 in five weeks in the shops. Immediately behind it are debuts for two more backwards-looking sets, namely Warner Dance's Ibiza – The History Of House and Universal Music Television's Kiss Presents Hip Hop Classics. The former album – a triple disc set – sold more than 14,600 copies last week to debut at number three, the latter – home to Tone Loc, Eric B & Rakim, LL Cool J and the Fugees – more than 13,700 to take fourth position.
