SINGLES COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

For only the second time in a year, a rock single is number one. Since Oasis held sway with The Hindu Times in April 2002, the only rock records to capture the sales crown are You Said No by Busted, which topped the chart in May and Bring Me To Life by Evanescence, which debuts at number one this week. Busted may be considered too "lite" to count as rock by some observers, but Evanescence are clearly the real deal and the popularity of

SINGLES FACTFILE

Bring Me To Life has generated nearly 150,000 sales of their debut album Fallen in the past six weeks, as well as prompting a premature chart debut for the single – peaking at number 60 – on import. Ignoring the latter fact, Evanescence are the first rock act to debut at number one (unless you consider White Town or Babylon Zoo as rock) with their first single since Stiltskin spent a week at the summit with Inside in 1994.

The ceiling for weeks at number one was seemingly set at four after Cher's Believe occupied pole position for seven weeks in 1998. Since then singles by Westlife, Atomic Kitten, Kylie Minogue, Enrique Iglesias, Gareth Gates, Elvis Presley, Girls Aloud, tA Tu, Room 5 and R Kelly have all spent four weeks at the top but none has gone any further.

Kelly's Ignition is the latest to stall in fifth, dipping 1-2 this week to hand its crown to Evanescence's Bring Me To Life. Kelly's single suffered its heaviest decline yet last week, with sales down a still small 22% week-on-week to a little more than 47,000, putting in well behind Evanescence's opening tally of more than 5,500. The good news for Kelly is that Ignition moves into third place for the year-to-date, with sales of more than 317,000 thus far. It should easily capture second place next week from tA Tu's All The Things She Said (336,000) although it is still some distance behind the year's top tune, Spirit In The Sky. The Gareth Gates/Kumars track has sold more than following I'm Gonna Getcha Good and Ka-Ching! – debuting at number six with Forever And For Always. The album, which debuted and peaked at number four last November, has been selling fairly poorly by Twain's own multi-platinum standards, but bounces 44-29 this week with sales up 64%.

Septuagenarians are rarely sighted in the chart, but Yoko Ono, who was 70 in February, returns to the Top 40 this week thanks to remixes of her best known song Walking On Thin Ice. The song – which Ono was working on with husband John Lennon the day of his brutal 1980 killing – has been remixed by Danny Tenaglia and the Pet Shop Boys among others and re-enters the chart at number 35 this week, exactly matching its original 1981 chart peak.

One True Voice or Girls Aloud? The real winners of Pop Stars: The Rivals appear to be Girls Aloud, who followed up their number one debut Sound Of The Underground with the number two hit No Good Advice. In direct competition with the girls, the boys settled for number two with Sacred Trust and can make only number 10 with their follow-up Shakespeare's (Way With) Words this week.

ALBUMS COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Although faced with tough competition from an S Club hits album and a new Metallica set, the Stereophonics easily beat their opponents to register their third consecutive number one album with You Gotta Go There To Come Back. The album – the Welsh group's fourth – sold nearly 102,000 copies last week, compared to first-week sales of 140,000 for 2001's Just Enough Education To Perform and 120,000 for 1999's Performance And Cocktail. Their debut album, Word Gets Around, had a modest 13,000 sale to debut at number six in 1997. It has since gone on to sell nearly 750,000 copies, roughly half as many as both Performance And Cocktail (1,570,000) and Just Enough Education To Perform (1,535,000) – but it is the latter two albums which set the benchmark by which You Gotta Go There To Come Back will be measured.

The Stereophonics join Kelly Rowland, Norah Jones and Blur in dethroning Justin Timberlake's Justified – but whereas Timberlake retained a top three placing when slipping from the summit on previous occasions, he slides to number five this time, falling behind strong new entries from S Club and Metallica as well as Evanescence's debut album Fallen. The latter has done just that for the first time in its career, despite increasing its sales 14% week-on-week. It is the first time this year that the top three have all been new entries (it last happened on November 9, 2002) and helps the artist albums market enjoy a 7% expansion week-on-week.

Never looking likely to bother the Stereophonics, S Club's greatest hits album Best sold 73,000 copies in the week – 30,000 fewer than the Stereophonics – and means that the band's singles and albums career will likely end with number twos. Filling the final top three berth, Metallica's St. Anger was not released until Thursday and sold more than 46,000 copies in the next three days. It is the heavy metal legends' first all-new, all-studio album since Reload reached number four in 1997 and easily beats that album's opening week's sales tally of 39,000. The previous year's effort, Load, reached number one with first week sales of nearly 57,000 – a figure which St Anger may well have bettered had it been on sale for more than three days.

Combining their 1983 chart-topper Labour Of Love, their 1987 number three album Labour Of Love II and their 1998 number eight album Labour Of Love III, UB40's Labour Of Love I, II and III sold nearly 20,000 copies last week to earn a number 10 debut. All three albums are covers sets comprising the Midlands band's favourite reggae songs rather than originals. The only previous instance of a three-CD set reaching the Top 10 comprising previously separate releases which also reached the Top 10 was Queen's Greatest Hits I, II and III.

Stinger's right hand man for 14 years, Argentinean born guitarist Dominic Miller debuts at number one on the classical chart and number 38 on the regular albums chart with Shapes, which sold more than 6,000 copies. Most of the album is made up of classical pieces.

COMPILATIONS

After weeks of stagnation, a breath of fresh air blows through the compilations chart with seven-week chart-topper Now! 54 diving to number seven as it is overwhelmed by six new entries. The unprecedented deluge of newcomers in the upper reaches of the chart helps the compilation sector to register a robust 18% improvement in sales week-on-week.

While the remainder of the newcomers are varied, the top two debuts – and thus the top two albums – are the similarly themed Power Ballads and The Quiet Storm. EMI/Virgin's Power Ballads won the tussle with some ease, selling more than 35,000 copies compared to The Quiet Storm's respectable but distant 18,000. With the remainder of the new entries tightly packed behind it and all selling upwards of 15,000. Both bristling with AOR/rock favourites and issued to tie-in with Father's Day gift buying, Power Ballads and The Quiet Storm share four tracks in common, settling on the same selections by Mr Mister, Nickelback, Chad Kroeger feat. Josey Scott and REO Speedwagon.

Using some of the same AOR acts but many more hard rock and rock'n'roll heroes, EMI/Virgin/UMTV's Best Air Guitar albums have proved a big success with Volume 1 appearing in November 2001 and selling 383,000 copies and Volume 2, issued a year later, notching sales of 355,000. Both reached number two, and have now been packaged together in a new cardboard outer sleeve, in which form they earn a number 27 debut this week, with combined sales of nearly 3,500.
