MUSIC WEEK 28 JUNE 2003

SINGLES COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

Topping the singles chart for the third week in a row, Evanescence's Bring Me To Life suffered a 24% decline in sales week-on-week to a little more than 36,000. That is barely half of the year-to-date average of 71,000 for number ones, which itself represents a catastrophic decline over previous years – in 25 weeks so far this year we have had only four in which the number one single topped 100,000 sales, compared to 15 at the same stage last year. In their defence, no matter how few copies the Evanescence single sold, it still beat all others and, more importantly, is helping them a lot of albums.

Two soap stars have new Top 10 hits this week, namely Aussie actress Delta Goodrem, formerly of Neighbours and Jennifer Ellison from Brookside. Ellison's cover of Transvision Vamp's 1989 number three hit Baby I Don't Care debuts at number six, while Goodrem's Lost Without You arrives at number four – a notch down on the number three peak of her

They claim they met at a fast food festival in Folkestone, but whether its true or not Fast Food Rockers – Lucy, Martin and Ria – land this week's highest debuting single with their infuriating Fast Food Song. They are all newcomers, but their single is the debut release on the Better The Devil label – presumably named after the Kylie Minogue hit – owned by veteran Mike Stock, who also co-wrote and co-produced the song. It is

SINGLES FACTFILE

Stock's 48th Top 10 composition but his first this decade. Stock's former partner Pete Waterman has had a much higher profile than Stock, but saw his most recent production, Shakespeare's Way With Words by One True Voice, peak at number 10 a couple of weeks ago. While Fast Food Song clearly fared much better last week, it didn't live up to expectations. It apparently shipped well over 100,000 copies but sold only 32,000.

March debut Born To Try. Three Lowestoft lads and a Scot, The Darkness are generating a lot of heat in rock circles and their chart fortunes are improving rapidly. Their introductory single I Believe In A Thing Called Love peaked at number 136 last year and the follow-up Get Your Hands Off My Woman reached number 43 in February. They arrive in the Top 40 with a bang this week, debuting at number 11 with Growing On Me.

Placebo have had eight consecutive Top 20 hits, but fall short of the mark this week, with This Picture debuting at number 23. Their only single to chart lower was their introductory hit Teenage Angst, which reached number 30 in 1996.

Meanwhile, Ashanti registers her seventh straight Top 20 hit in a string which extends back a mere 16 months. The controversial R&B singer's Rock Wit U (Awww Baby), from the eagerly-awaited new album Chapter II debuts at number seven.

After 14 hits ranging in magnitude from number six to number 73 for Sony's S2 label, Reef's first release on their own label, through Snapper Music, is Waster. Unfortunately it does not arrest their decline and debuts at number 56, 12 places below their last Sony single.

ALBUMS COMMENTARY

by ALAN JONES

It is five years since Wayne Wonder's only previous appearance in the chart – his single Basement Girl reached number 152 – but the 36-year-old Jamaican marks his arrival proper this week by debuting at number five on the singles chart with No Letting Go while surging 105-40 on the albums chart with No Holding Back. Wayne is the second artist from Jamaica's 20-year-old VP Recordings label to break big here and in America following its licensing deal with Atlantic. The first was Sean Paul, who reached number four with the single Get Busy last month and has since spent five weeks in a row in the Top 20 of the album chart with Dutty Rock. Paul topped the singles chart and reached number nine on the album chart in America, while Wonder peaked at number 11 on the US singles chart and number 29 on the albums chart.

Evanescence continue atop the singles chart with Bring Me To Life, while surging 5-1 on the albums chart with Fallen to become the first act to top both charts simultaneously since last September, when Atomic Kitten turned the trick. They do so despite both records' sales falling week-on-week, the single by 24% and the album by 15%. Fallen previously peaked at number three and sold 38,500 copies last week to bring its overall sales to 232,000 in eight weeks. Its arrival at the top makes it the fourth number one in as many weeks. It surprisingly dethrones Radiohead's Hail To Thief, which registered the year's highest weekly sale (more than 114,000) but suffered a very severe drop-off last week, dipping 71% to little more than 33,000 sales and second place.

The longest-running album in the Top 40 at the moment is the Red Hot Chili Peppers' The Way. The album has never dipped below number 23 and has racked up 50 straight weeks on the list while selling 1.6m copies, making it by some distance the band's biggest seller. With so many fans owning the album, it is no surprise that buyers for the singles from the album are becoming difficult to find. The title track peaked at number two last July, The Zephyr Song got to number 11 in November, and Can't Stop reached number 22 in February. The latest single, Universally Speaking debuts this week at number 27.

After spawning a third hit in Sunshine, DJ Sammy's album Heaven has been the subject of renewed advertising hence its 138-25 leap on this week's chart. The album, which peaked at number 14 in March, has sold more than 62,000 thus far, 7,000 of them last week.

Scots support for their own acts, as evidenced by recent Lemonscent and Darius singles and Annie Lennox's album, is impressive though Kilmarnock punk revivalists Biffy Clyro's sales for new album The Vertigo Of Bliss are far less heavily biased towards their home country. But they still registered more than a quarter of their sales north of the border compared to a market average of 9.2% and their Scottish chart placing – number 18 – was 30 places higher than their UK chart position.

COMPILATIONS

Evanescence hit the top of the artist albums chart this week, but they did so with 38,570 sales – the second lowest tally for a number one artist album this year, and also sold fewer copies than the number one compilation Power Ballads, which suffered a 61% dip in its own sales week-on-week as the Father's Day effect worked its way out of the equation but still beat its artist chart challenger by 1,429 sales.

It's only the sixth time this year that the number one compilation has sold more than the number one artist album. Up until this week, the artist chart has the higher average for number one sales of 59,142 compared to the compilation sector's average of 43,394, but the compilation sector is far more volatile with a high of 184,789 (Now! 54's first week) and a low of 20,241 (Now! 54's seventh and last week at number one), while artist album charts range from a weekly high of just 114,320 for Radiohead a fortnight ago to a low of 33,943 for Justin Timberlake's Justified at the end of January. Two albums from each sector have had weekly sales of more than 100,000 – the aforementioned Radiohead and Now! 54 sets plus the Stereophonics' You Gotta Go There To Come Back (101,946) and Power Ballads, which sold 103,096 copies the week before last.

Despite new entries to the Top 10 for Clubbers Guide To Summer 2003 at number two (34,000 sales), 60s Soul Mix at number three (17,000) and Magic – Summer Feeling 2003 at number 10 (10,000), the compilation market suffered a big downturn last week, reversing the gains it made ahead of Father's Day. It dipped by 26%, while artist albums suffered slightly more, registering a 28% decline.
