1. Eric Prydz
Swedish superiority in the singles chart is nothing new, with Abba, Europe, Ace Of Base and Rednex all having topped the charts. The latest super Swede, Eric Prydz, continues his reign at the top of the chart this week with Call On Me. In absolute terms, its lead is cut from 32,310 to 24,846, but in percentage terms, Call On Me increases its lead at the top of the chart over Girls Aloud's Love Machine from 90.1% to 115.4%, as its sales slide by 31.1% to 46,370, while Love Machine declines by 39.9% to 21,524.

8. Donny Osmond
His previous highest new entry as a solo artist came in March 1973, when The Twelfth Of Never debuted at number 14. But this week Donny Osmond comprehensively beats that and lands his first hit single in more than 13 years, debuting at number eight with Breeze On By. The introductory single from What I Meant To Say was co-authored by former Take That star Gary Barlow and helps Osmond to win his first Top 10 hit for nearly 31 years. His age has more than trebled in the interim, from 15 to 46.

11. Groove Armada
Shaking its ass into the Top 20 for the second time in five years, Groove Armada's I See You Baby debuts this week at number 11, beating its original 1999 chart peak of 17. Currently being used as the soundbed for the Renault Megane TV advert, it is also the leading attraction on Groove Armada's Greatest Hits album, which is released today (Monday). It returns to the chart in a mix created by Fatboy Slim.

21. Paul McCartney
Next week will mark the 42nd anniversary of Paul McCartney's chart debut with The Beatles and Love Me Do. Now 62, he lands the 53rd Top 40 hit of his post-Beatles career and his biggest hit since 1997, debuting at number 21 with his latest single pairing new recording Tropic Island Hum with his 1984 hit We All Stand Together. Both songs concern the committed vegetarian's furry friends, with Tropic Island Hum introducing new cartoon character Wirral The Squirrel, and We All Stand Together being a celebration of Rupert The Bear.

The Official UK Singles Chart is produced in co-operation with the BPI and BARD, based on a sample of more than 4,000 record outlets. Incorporating 7-inch, 12-inch, cassette and CD singles sales.

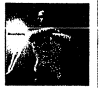
1. Green Day Green Day's previous album, Shenanigans, peaked at number 32 in 2002, and has sold just 45,000 copies to date. But the veteran American rockers' latest album, American Idiot, sold more copies than that in its first three days in the shops and storms to number one on the back of the number-three singles chart success of the title track. American Idiot is the band's first number one, their previous highest-charting album being 2000's Warning, which reached number four. First-week sales of 89,385 for American Idiot raise Green Day's total UK album sales to more than 1.9m.



4. Bryan Adams Bryan Adams' first regular album for six years, Room Service, debuts at number four. In so doing, it beats the peak positions of his previous four albums – the MTV session Unplugged (number 19, 1997), the studio set On A Day Like Today (number 11, 1998), the greatest hits set The Best Of Me (number 12, 1999) and the soundtrack album Spirit – Stallion Of The Cimarron (number eight, 2002). The only Adams albums to chart higher are the number ones Waking Up The Neighbours, So Far So Good and 18 Til I Die.

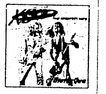
8. The Music Drawing extremely favourable reviews peppered with adjectives like "bombastic", "psychedelic" and even "thrilling" from the British music press, and following hot on the heels of their number 15 single Freedom Fighters, The Music's second album Welcome To The North nevertheless makes a softer landing than their first. Their eponymous 2002 debut opened at number four with first-week sales of 25,341, while Welcome To The North debuts this week at number eight, with first week sales of 23,273. The first album increased its cumulative sales to more than 150,000 copies last week.



16. Status Quo A week after landing their highest-charting single for 14 years with You'll Come Round, Status Quo debut at number 16 with their latest best of package XS All Areas - The Greatest Hits. A career-spanning double-disc set containing 24 of their 38 Top 40 hits among its 40 tracks, XS All Areas might have sold even better but for the fact previous Quo hits packages have charted at regular intervals – in 1973, 1980, 1984, 1990 and 1997, to be precise. Quo's 40 date UK tour – also called XS All Areas – starts on October 31.
